

HE RETURNS TO HIS HOME AFTER VACATION

NORMAN TREVOR, SCREEN ACTOR, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Los Angeles, October 31.—(P)—Norman Trevor, a veteran of the stage and later a figure in motion pictures, died late yesterday in a hospital at Norwalk, Calif. He was 52 years old and death was caused by a "nervous condition of the brain," hospital authorities said.

COASTAL CANAL PLEA PRESENTED TO HOOVER

Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association Official Asks Assistance.

Washington, October 31.—(P)—A committee of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association called upon President Hoover at the White House today to solicit his support for the completion of the intracoastal canal linking Florida with New England.

The president was informed that the great portion of this waterway has been made navigable and was asked for special consideration for the New Jersey ship canal which they desired to have deepened to 25 feet from Perth Amboy to Bordentown, N. J.

The committee, which was headed by J. Hampton Moore, president of the association and former congressman, told Mr. Hoover they expected the New Jersey ship canal to carry a tonnage ultimately equal to that of the Suez or Panama canals.

In his Louisville speech on waterways Mr. Hoover mentioned as one part of his program the completion of an additional 1,000 miles of intracoastal canals.

In addition to Mr. Moore the committee was composed of the following:

John H. Small, of North Carolina, former chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee; Representative J. Charles Linthicum, of Maryland; Richard Wiegman, director of wharves, docks and harbors at Philadelphia; Captain John P. Magill, of the Maritime Association of New York; Captain William E. Bernard, president of the Vessel Owners' and Captains' Association of the Delaware river; Walter Wood, of Florence, N. J.; State Senator Clifford R. Powell, of New Jersey, and Newton Morton, of New Jersey.

PROBE OF AIR DISASTER FAILS TO REVEAL CAUSE

No Evidence That Machine Didn't Function Properly Prior to Crash.

Washington, October 31.—(P)—The department of commerce reported to the senate today that there was no evidence that the Tat plane, City of San Francisco, which crashed in New Mexico with the loss of eight lives, failed to function properly at any time preceding the accident.

Three probable causes for the disaster were assigned in the report which was made in response to a senate resolution by Senators Bratton, New Mexico, and McKellar, of Tennessee.

The committee, the pilot might have entered the storm area intending to fly through and miscalculated the direction and velocity of the winds; he might have been unable to avoid the storm and in attempting to remain under it might have unexpectedly collided with the mountain; or he might have miscalculated in attempting to pass between the storm and the mountain.

The senate resolution also requested information on an accident at Memphis in which two persons were killed, and the commerce report said the pilot, Frank Hays, was unlicensed, and apparently he permitted the airplane to lose flying speed and was unable to regain control.

In its communication on the Tat disaster the commerce department said it was impossible to determine definitely the contributing factors.

FLOOD HEADQUARTERS WILL GO TO VICKSBURG

Washington, October 31.—(P)—Headquarters of the government's huge Mississippi river flood control project will be moved from St. Louis to Vicksburg, Miss., as soon as arrangements for accommodations in the latter city can be completed.

Orders for transfer of the offices of the Mississippi river commission which has charge of the project, were issued several weeks ago, suspended to consider a protest from St. Louis, and finally made effective today.

The decision was announced by Secretary Good, who said he saw no reason to change the plan which contemplates the placing of the commission headquarters in the center of its big project.

Brigadier General T. H. Jackson, president of the commission and division engineer of the lower Mississippi valley division, already is at work on arrangements for the transfer. Preliminary arrangements have not yet been received from him at the office of Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, but they are expected shortly.

Since the order was issued a transfer has been the subject of considerable discussion, engaging the attention of congressional delegations and citizens from both Missouri and Mississippi. Secretary Good has insisted throughout that the move was intended solely to increase efficiency and speed up work in the flood control undertaking.

The organized business and industry of St. Louis protested the move, saying that not like to lose a $325,000,000 corporation and arguing that the commission could conduct its work more effectively from their city than Vicksburg because of transportation, communication, housing and health conditions and availability of necessary materials.

Spokesmen for Vicksburg stressed its geographical advantage and insisted their city was entirely capable of taking care of the commission.

CHATTAHOOCHEE VALLEY GROUP HOLDS BANQUET

Columbus, Ga., October 31.—(P)—The Chattahoochee Valley Poultry Association held its annual banquet here last night with about 150 in attendance. Rhodes Browne was toastmaster.

Prominent speakers on the program included C. R. Ernst, Waverly, Iowa; M. C. Wise, Greenwood, S. C.; and W. P. Clarke and J. H. Wood, of the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

Progress of the association during the past year was discussed, and this year's poultry show at the Chattahoochee Valley Fair was reported as having far exceeded previous exhibits in number of birds entered. A pigeon show was feature of the fair for the first time.

The Southeastern District Rhode Island Red Association is holding its annual show in connection with the fair, more than 200 Rhode Island Red birds were exhibited.

THOMAS SCHOOLS NOT IN DANGER, GARRISON SAYS

Thomasville, Ga., October 31.—(P)—(Special.)—People of Thomas county need entertain no apprehensions as to closing schools here, or shortening the terms, because of the shortage of funds announced by the state authorities, says J. Garrison Garrison, superintendent of the county school system.

The local school authorities have a balance of around $10,000 on hand, and the county schools will run a full seven months, as they did last year. Furthermore, he says, if Thomas county realizes on all sums due and resources developing through the year the present school year will end with between $8,000 and $9,000 balance on hand, with which to begin the school year of 1930-31, next fall.

UNION MEN VOTE TO ACCEPT TRUCE BUT ARE TOO LATE

New Orleans, October 31.—(P)—The city's striking street carmen today voted 880 to 21 for unqualified acceptance of the tentative strike settlement agreement reached last September 16 between labor leaders and New Orleans Public Service, Inc.

The result of the poll was made known tonight by officers of the local carmen's union after all-day balloting.

It was announced that Edwin J. Peroux, president of the union; J. B. Lawson, member of the executive committee of the international union, and others, would attempt to confer tomorrow with company officials to apprise the latter of the result of the vote.

Today's ballot was the third taken by the carmen on acceptance or rejection of the tentative agreement.

INJUNCTION STOPS LOUISIANA SOLONS' HIGHWAY SALARIES

Baton Rouge, La., October 31.—(P)—Judge W. Carruth Jones, of the nineteenth judicial district court, today granted a temporary injunction to Attorney-General Percy Saint, restraining the Louisiana highway commission from paying salaries to members of the legislature employed by them as special attorneys.

The highway commission's exception of no cause for action, challenging the right of the attorney to question the arrangement, was dismissed.

It was expected that the case would be immediately appealed to the state supreme court.

In granting the injunction, the court set a $5,000 bond on the attorney-general's office to protect the legislators' salaries pending appeal.

JUSTICE AGENTS TO INVESTIGATE PATRONAGE CASE

Washington, October 31.—(P)—Attorney General Mitchell announced today that the department of justice would conduct an immediate investigation into testimony taken by the senate patronage committee regarding the actions of United States District Attorney J. D. E. Myer, of Charleston, South Carolina.

The attorney-general said the matter investigated to see whether any action in the case was justified. Among the charges made before the committee was that Myer had recommended the appointment of a former bootlegger to be a prohibition agent.

FLOOD DAMAGE TO BRIDGE REPAIRED

Augusta, Ga., October 31.—Repairs to the Fifth Street bridge that was severely damaged in the record-breaking floods of the Savannah river early this month were completed today.

The structure will be opened to traffic tomorrow.

Plans for New White Unit Proposed for City Hospital

Ground plan for proposed new white unit at Grady hospital to be constructed from a part of the $2,000,000 bond issue recommended for that institution is shown in the above drawing made by C. E. Kaufmann, city bridge engineer, at the request of Steve R. Johnson, superintendent of Grady.

The new unit would front about 90 feet on Butler street and extend along Coca-Cola place about 200 feet. It would have a capacity of at least 750 beds and anticipate the city charity hospital needs for the next 10 years, members of a joint committee of council named to study the projected bond issue declare.

In addition to the $2,000,000 for Grady, the committee will recommend that $1,000,000 be provided to modernize, reconstruct and equip Battle Hill sanitarium.

Major portions of the present white unit, the clinics, operating rooms and virtually all wards would be replaced by the proposed new white division as outlined. It would occupy almost the same spot on which the white unit is now located, but would be modern and equipped to meet the demands now made on the old building which it is inadequate to furnish.

DOMINICAN CHIEF ARRIVES IN U. S. FOR MEDICAL CARE

Miami, Fla., October 31.—(P)—General Horacio Vasquez, president of the Dominican republic, on his way to Baltimore for treatment at Johns Hopkins hospital, arrived here at 5:15 p. m. today aboard a Pan-American air liner from Havana. He was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Trina Moya De Vasquez; his wife's niece, Miss Antonio Moya; his personal physician, Dr. Ramon De La Cruz; and a Dominican minister plenipotentiary to the United States, and Lieutenant Gustavo Guzman, military attaché at the Dominican legation in Washington.

Dr. De Lara refused to give his diagnosis of President Vasquez's illness and would only say that he had suffered from a high fever more than a week. President Vasquez is 69 years old. Reporters were not permitted to interview him.

A cot had been placed in the special plane in which he was transported to Miami, but after the plane waited 15 minutes on the runway before the entrance to the Pan-American terminal, President Vasquez, meticulously dressed in street attire, followed others of the party from the plane and was immediately taken to a downtown hotel to await the departure for Baltimore by train.

The exact hour of departure is not known, pending on the condition of the president. It was anticipated that the start from here might be delayed until tomorrow.

SOUGHT AS SLAYER, MAN CALLS POLICE, THEN KILLS SELF

Camden, Tenn., October 31.—(P)—John Dowdy, 30, sought by officers on a charge of murder since the fatal stabbing Monday night near here of John Moody, 30, ended his own life today after he notified officers he was ready to surrender.

Sheriff Allie N. Pafford and other Benton county officers went to Big Sandy today to arrest Dowdy. While they were on the way to the Dowdy home, he is said to have taken his gun, walked about 150 yards from his home and shot himself through the heart.

Page Craig, 21, and Lon Davis, 25, are held here on charges of murder in connection with Moody's death. They are alleged to have been in an automobile Monday night when a quarrel was started in which Dowdy was charged with having stabbed Moody. Craig and Davis are said to have taken Moody to a Paris hospital, where he died.

WEALTH NULLIFIES ANTI-TRUST LAWS, SACKETT ALLEGES

Louisville, Ky., October 31.—(P)—Anti-trust banking and transportation laws were described tonight by Senator Sackett, republican, Kentucky, as "virtually nullified" as a result of the wealth that has poured into the United States since the World War began.

Addressing the Transportation Club, of Louisville, the Kentuckian asserted that industrial holding companies, chain banking corporations and investment companies may become "dangerous creatures of the new wealth when operating without adequate protective barriers."

Sackett said the transportation act was powerless to protect the public against railroad security holders and that the Sherman anti-trust law was "nullified" through great industrial holding companies. Chain banking was pictured as destroying the McFadden act.

"The increase of national wealth, making possible the flotation of super-corporate structures, has thus outgrown the protective qualities of our laws," he continued. "Unrestrained by law, competent honest management alone assures the people protection from exploitation."

San Francisco Firm Granted Permission To Cut $7,500,000 'Melon'

San Francisco, October 31.—(P)—Permission to distribute an ordinary dividend amounting to $300,000 for each stockholder was granted to the J. D. and A. B. Spreckels Investment Company here yesterday by the state corporation commission.

It's all in the family, though, because the stock is owned among 15 members bearing the Spreckels name.

The dividend amounts to $4,500,000.

COTTONSEED CARGO LEAVES SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., October 31.—(P)—The first complete shipment of cottonseed cake to be moved from the port of Savannah in two years was aboard the steamship Modest of the Atlantic and Gulf Shipping Company, which sailed today for Danish ports.

The shipment of approximately 2,500 tons of the material, which is used extensively as cattle feed and for fertilizing material, was taken as an indication of an excellent condition in cotton for the year.

It is expected that Savannah's cotton receipts this season will range between 900,000 and a million bales. Last year receipts aggregated only 350,000 bales.

ASSASSIN'S BULLETS KILL HATED GANGSTER

Dreaded Chicago Sicilian Is Shot Down at Grocery.

Chicago, October 31.—(P)—Rocco Maggio, called "The Scourge," died today from bullet wounds—one in the head, three in the back. Police said he had "gotten what was coming to him."

"King of Sicilian Extortionists" was one of the sobriquets of this man whose death came as the climax to observation of his thirty-third birthday anniversary. He had been convicted of murder and arrested for extortion and blackmail. He was one of the most feared men in "Little Sicily."

The shooting down of Maggio amid the vegetable bins of his father-in-law's grocery last night followed by a few hours the bold assassination in another part of town of Myles Cannavan, known to police as a racketeer. Cannavan was shot dead in the presence of his wife as he was starting their automobile. The assassin fired five shots and fled.

A stranger entered the little West Side grocery and inquired of the clerk if "my friend Maggio" was there. Maggio was called from a rear room. As he stepped forward the stranger produced a pistol in Maggio's face, shouted curses at him, and fired. Maggio did not regain consciousness. The killer walked from the store, the gun still in his hand.

Maggio had been arrested many times. So frequent were the arrests, in fact, that Maggio a few weeks ago sought an injunction to restrain police from annoying him. The injunction was refused.

In December, 1925, he was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The sentence later was reversed and a new trial ordered. The charge subsequently was stricken off the records, but was reinstated two months ago following many complaints that Maggio was attempting to extort money from his countrymen. He was released on bonds but rearrested on charges of assault, bigamy and extortion. In each case the charges were dropped when witnesses, fearing violence, refused to testify.

Charges of assault against Maggio two years ago were dropped when Maggio married the 14-year-old girl who brought them. The girl wife today was reported prostrated by his death.

On Maggio's left arm was tattooed a dagger, dripping blood, with the word "vendetti" needed beneath.

Open Season on Deer, Duck AND WITH IT COMES TWITTY'S ANNUAL WARNING And Snipe To Begin Today

Georgia woods, lakes and low lands will echo this morning with the sound of shots ushering in the open season of 1929 on deer, duck and snipe.

The beginning of the deer season drew from Peter S. Twitty, state commissioner of game and fisheries, the warning that shooting doe is at all times prohibited by law. "Don't shoot," says Mr. Twitty, "unless you can see the horns of the buck above his ears."

In 18 of the mountain counties of Georgia the killing of deer at any time was prohibited by the last legislature. This country is being restocked with the game and will be protected for several years.

The state laws have allowed the shooting of duck since September 1, but the federal law begins its open season today. Cool weather for the past several days has led hunters to believe that the early shooting will be good.

Commissioner Twitty urged all Georgia hunters to be good sportsmen during the opening season. "The game law recognizes the right of citizens to take the game and its protective arm is raised, not to impose hardship upon legitimate hunters, but to conserve game for future seasons and to increase the supply. Good sportsmen will co-operate."

DENMARK IS FREED OF EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGES AT ROME

Rome, Ga., October 31.—R. A. Denmark, bookkeeper, was acquitted by a superior court jury here today of charges of embezzling $8,000 from Britton Brothers, his former employers, who operate a chain of mill stores. The case was given to the jury last night and the verdict reported shortly after court opened today.

Denmark also faces two contempt of court charges arising from alleged conversations which he had with prospective jurors. A hearing on one of these charges is set for late tomorrow.

BEATS BANDIT New Orleans Man Saves Wallet From Negro.

New Orleans, October 31.—(P)—Slugged on the head with a stick and knocked to the street here today, William Byrnes, clerk for Baldwin & Co., managed to beat off a negro bandit and save $125 which he had in his left trousers pocket.

Byrnes had just cashed checks at a bank and was returning to the store when the negro set upon him.

TENNESSEE BOARD SELLS 5-YEAR NOTES FOR BUILDING WORK

Nashville, Tenn., October 31.—(P)—Caldwell & Company, of Nashville, were successful bidders today on $400,000 five-year notes offered by the state funding board. The bid was 5 1/4 per cent and a premium of $526.80. Of these notes, $400,000 will be used by the girls' vocational school at Tullahoma. The $300,000 issue is for the central hospital near Nashville to meet obligations in rebuilding part of the institution destroyed by fire.

BORROW PLANE WITHOUT PERMIT, CRASH, TWO DIE

San Diego, Cal., October 31.—(United News).—Wilson Clark and Gordon Goodman, licensed pilots, were killed late today when a monoplane they had borrowed without authorization went into a tailspin and crashed 800 feet to Camp Kearney mesa, near here.

The ship was said to have belonged to a student at the Air Tech School of Aviation, who did not know that Clark had taken it into the air. The plane was demolished.

DEPRIEST CIRCULARS LAID TO DEMOCRATS

Republican Leader Charges Virginia Democrats Printed Pamphlets.

Richmond, Va., October 31.—(AP)—Henry W. Anderson, republican leader, in a statement tonight said he had affidavits in his possession to the effect that a member of the Richmond city democratic committee distributed the "De Priest circular" and that a woman caller at state democratic headquarters was told that she could get some of the circulars by calling later in the day.

"I do not give the names of persons furnishing me with these written statements and affidavits because I do not wish to involve them in the controversy unless it is necessary, but I am authorized to show these documents to Dr. Pollard (John Garland Pollard), democratic candidate for governor, if he desires to see them," Mr. Anderson said. His statement was issued just before he departed for Portsmouth to deliver a campaign address in the interest of Dr. William Moore.

PROMINENT CLUB WOMAN TELLS OF GREAT BENEFITS

Mrs. Kling Says Complications Readily Yielded to New Sargon; Former Strength Restored, She Declares.

Mrs. Catherine A. Kling, of 815 Durant place, N. E., has been a resident of Atlanta for the past thirty years, and has long been identified with a number of its welfare organizations. For the last eleven years she has served as president of the local chapter of the Woman's Relief Corps, Grand Army of the Republic, and is also vice president of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church. Mrs. Kling has hundreds of friends who will be interested in her recent statement of the splendid results she received from Sargon. She said:

"All my life I've been very active in social welfare work, and a strong and healthy woman, but three years ago I had an attack of flu. Then pneumonia and other complications set in, and this all left me in a terribly weakened and run down condition. I lost nearly all my strength, and for months I was hardly able to drag myself around the house. I lost my appetite, and no matter how light the food was, it always seemed to disagree with me. Constipation added to my troubles, and I was compelled to take strong laxatives for temporary relief. At times I was very nervous, and seldom got a good night's rest. A terrible pain, something like lumbago, would sometimes strike me in the small of my back, and I could scarcely turn over in bed or lie on my left side. I heard so many of my friends tell of the good results they obtained from Sargon that I was determined to try it."

"It was surprising how it took hold of my troubles and strengthened me right from the start! I have a wonderful appetite now and my food agrees with me and digests properly. I've had a gratifying gain in weight, but best of all, my former strength has been restored! My nerves are relieved, and I enjoy sound, restful sleep like I did years ago. Sargon Soft Mass Pills overcame my constipation and regulated me perfectly. I just can't praise this treatment highly enough for what it has done for me, and I'll gladly tell anyone what a splendid medicine it is."

The Sargon Man is at Jacobs' main store, 14 Marietta St., where he is meeting the public daily and explaining the merits of this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

ley Brown, anti-Smith and republican gubernatorial nominee.

A denial that the "De Priest circular" was printed or distributed from state democratic headquarters was issued by T. McCall Frazier, headquarters director, when Mr. Anderson first called official attention to the pamphlet in a letter to Dr. Pollard, asking the democratic nominee if he "authorized or approved" its issuance. Dr. Pollard also replied by denying knowledge of the circular and terming the Anderson letter to him "a brazen piece of insolence."

The circular itself contained pictures of Oscar De Priest, negro congressman, and his wife, as well as printed excerpts from De Priest speeches and asserted that Mr. Anderson, Dr. Brown and the republican platform stood for poll tax repeal as a prerequisite to voting. Anderson termed the poll tax statement "an absolute falsehood," and Dr. Pollard in reply said that it was a part of the republican platform in 1921 when Anderson ran for governor.

Cotton Furnishes Full Wardrobe, Including Shoes

Boston, October 31.—(AP)—New dress creations in the "cottons of 1930" will bedeck the fair feminine creatures down to their very toes.

Evening gowns, sports wear, morning and afternoon dresses and even pajama lounging suits were exhibited by Junior League girls and sub-debutantes at a fashion show for the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers here last night. Capping everything else in the display, however, was a new line of shoes, a new experiment of the industry, cotton shoes.

Striking new effects with cotton net and velvet were shown. The adaptability of velvet was demonstrated in an ensemble including a jacket of green hollow cut velvet with skirt of the same material, a red velvet coat with fur trimmings, and an orange and black check velvet raincoat.

The new fabrics designed for next season will probably be best known for their sheerness and light weight, according to Susan Bates, fashion authority of the Cotton Textile Institute.

In referring to the new silhouette during her introduction of the various models, Katharine Hooper, style adviser to the national association, said a fashion that comes slowly comes more surely and lasts longer. "Every woman knows," she said, "that if she gives in completely to the new silhouette, she will have to discard her whole wardrobe, which is something very few can or want to do."

PATROLMAN HALTS TRAIN, SAVES LIVES OF TWO NEGROES

Flagger down a northbound A. & W. P. passenger train, Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Schilling probably saved the lives of two aged Atlanta negroes at the Avon street crossing just off Lee street Thursday afternoon.

John Abel, 63, and Perc Johnson, 60, were attempting to push an old automobile across the tracks when one of the rear wheels of the car caught in the rail. A mule had been hitched to the auto in an effort to pull it free, and it was apparent that neither Abel or Johnson were aware of the approaching train.

Officer Schilling saw the peril of the two negroes and their animal while riding on Lee street. He piloted his motorcycle near the track, pulled out his handkerchief and waved down the train which pulled up within a few feet of Johnson and Abel.

The negroes were hidden from the engineer's view due to a curve in the track and a long row of box cars.

36 ARE INJURED IN $550,000 FIRE IN CALIFORNIA

Alameda, Calif., October 31.—(AP)—After causing damage estimated at $550,000 and injuring 26 persons, mostly firemen, a fire in the cross-streets piling supporting the loading wharf of the Encinal Terminal pier again was under control today. Eight hundred feet of the 1,200-foot dock had been destroyed.

FUND IS ASKED FOR HEADSTONES FOR GREY DEAD

Washington, October 31.—(AP)—An appropriation of $108,750 for the secretary of war to erect headstones over graves of Confederate army soldiers was asked in a bill introduced today by Representative Green, of Florida.

Erection of headstones over Confederate soldiers' graves was authorized in an act of February 26, 1929, which also provides that names and places of burial of Confederate soldiers be preserved in records of the war department.

Tennessee Poses Continue Search For Escaped Convict

Erwin, Tenn., October 31.—(AP)—The thick undergrowth and forests that crown the Unaka range proved an effective screen today for the band of ambushers believed responsible for the wounding of three officers near here yesterday. Poses continued an unavailing 24-hour search tonight.

The condition of W. M. Barnett, Erwin deputy sheriff, was pronounced most serious tonight. Sheriff Sam Coin, of Unico county, shot while pursuing Barnett's assailant, was threatened with loss of his left arm. Sheriff J. B. Worley, of Washington county, who was wounded by the same bullet which struck Coin, was said to be resting comfortably at Johnson City.

Sheriff Coin was positive in his assertion that Carl Adkins, escaped state convict, fired the shots. He said at least three and possibly four men, two of them believed by him to be Adkins' brothers, accompanied Adkins.

FINEST WAYCROSS HOME TO BE NAMED

Waycross, Ga., October 31.—(Special)—The Lions Club of Waycross will make its annual award of the loving cup for the most attractively maintained home in Waycross the first Tuesday in December.

This cup has been won in the past by Mr. and Mrs. George Hall, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. King and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bennett. The cup is awarded each year to the home in Waycross that is most attractively maintained, taking into consideration the home itself, its grounds, its adaptation to its surroundings and its care. John W. Bennett, Jr., is in charge of the award and will announce the judges within the next few days.

Mrs. Wyckoff To Be Guest Of Chamber at Luncheon

OWNS AND EDITS WALL STREET MAGAZINE

BY BESSIE S. STAFFORD,
Editor of The Constitution Woman's Department.

Mrs. Cecilia G. Wyckoff, owner and publisher of the largest and most important investment and economic paper in the United States, is in Atlanta. She is the sole owner of the magazine of Wall Street, the pioneer educational and financial journal, which has about 100,000 subscribers and readers, and for which she has refused several million dollars.

Luncheon Guest.

Mrs. Wyckoff is here as the distinguished luncheon guest of the Chamber of Commerce today, and to talk on "The Broad Economic Phases of Business and Securities." She will discuss the strong position of the country, its splendid business leadership, and point out the fact that the country boasts of men possessing great experience in handling big matters in a practical way. She will touch upon the speed of transportation and communication, which has changed the entire economical outlook.

As Miss Cecelia Shere, of Detroit, Mich., she went to New York in 1910, when there were only five employees connected with the magazine which could not afford more help; it was headed for the rocks so to speak. She took a part-time job, interviewed people, and managed the business. At that time it was called the "Ticker," and began its career as a speculative journal. She immediately commenced to build the paper editorially from an investment angle, thereby changing its entire character, which heretofore had catered to the small speculator.

Could Not Support Owner.

It was no longer able to support its owner, who was employed elsewhere, and he agreed she could run it, provided he was not called upon for any additional funds. It was Richard D. Wyckoff who founded the journal in 1907, and when she became affiliated with it, she drew her salary from the time of her marriage to Mr. Wyckoff in 1913 until 1920. He had originally invested $12,000 in the journal and in 1920, when she bought him out, Mrs. Wyckoff gave her husband, among other things, $500,000 of seven per cent bonds.

Instead of five people, there are 200 employed today by the Magazine of Wall Street. It was left to Mrs. Wyckoff, the woman in the case, to either succeed or fail in this field, as Mr. Wyckoff, by 1912, was engaged in many other outside interests. She succeeded even far beyond her own expectations and after her marriage, continued to carry this publication forward in order to enable her husband to devote himself to his own ambitions.

Charm and Vivacity.

Charm, vivacity, and chic, best describe Mrs. Wyckoff, who possesses a flair for music and art, and proudly boasts of two lovely daughters, one 11, and the other 13 years old. She lives at Great Neck, Long Island, in a 10-acre tract of land, which she christened Twin Lindens. She built her wonderful gardens first, afterward erecting her white stucco and red-tiled roofed house in the midst of this picturesque setting. She possesses a taste for artistic beauty and grace in living, and her home at Great Neck is planned for gracious entertaining. She purchased the land at auction with the first investment profit she made from the Magazine of Wall Street. She loves best her country life, garden and flowers, is a devoted mother and wife, and her good deeds bring sunshine into countless lives.

OFFICER CLAIMS ORAL PERMIT TO SEARCH FARM

Chandler, Okla., October 31.—(AP)—Jeff Harris' statement that in his authority as a posseman he was given oral permission to search the James Harris farm near Tecumseh, closed the defense case in his murder trial here shortly before noon today.

Harris, who was deputized by a federal prohibition enforcement agent, is on trial for the murder of Oscar Lowe, 34, who with James Harris was killed during a liquor raid last July 4. The case was expected to be placed in the jury's hands late this afternoon.

MEMPHIS ADDS 52 SQUARE MILES BY ANNEXATION

Memphis, Tenn., October 31.—(AP)—Memphis tomorrow will be bigger by 52 square miles. Annexation of a territory with an estimated population of 40,000 will become effective at midnight. Authority for the annexation, the subject of lengthy debate, given by the Tennessee legislature several months ago.

COTTONSEED INDUSTRY WILL ASSIST PROBERS

General Counsel for Association Denies, However, Charge of Violating Law.

Columbia, S. C., October 31.—(AP)—Christie Benet, general counsel of the National Cottonseed Products Association, in a letter to the industry, which will appear in the next issue of the Cotton Oil Press, official publication of the association, says charges that the industry "has banded itself together for the purpose of violating the law and taking advantage of the public" are "untrue and unfounded."

Mr. Benet said he had called in person at the department of justice and the federal trade commission and advised the officers in charge that the association and its officers would cooperate fully in any investigation that was made. He referred, presumably, to the investigation ordered in a senate resolution.

He declared that the association and its members "in every way had endeavored to carry out" the code of trade practices adopted by the industry at Memphis.

"The complaints are instigated by those who were getting preferential treatment under the old system and were receiving hidden commissions or secret rebates which the average seller of seed or buyer of products could not get and knew nothing about," Mr. Benet asserted.

"The industry has nothing to fear or be ashamed of in its effort to bring the business out in the open. The investigation will develop the true situation and should be of great benefit to the industry."

DRY AGENT MOVED TO BARNESVILLE

Columbus, Ga., October 31.—(AP)—B. K. Henderson, deputy federal prohibition agent located here for more

FORMER PRESIDENT OF PORTUGAL DIES; ANTI-MONARCHIST

Lisbon, Portugal, October 31.—(AP)—Antonio Jose Almeida, former Portuguese president, died here today.

In his lifetime Senor Almeida was a great enemy of the Portuguese monarch and did much to contribute to its downfall, suffering for his activities once with exile to Africa.

He was elected president in 1919. Under his administration Portugal's relations with foreign countries were improved and strengthened. He made peace with the Vatican and received officially the king of the Belgians and the president of Argentina.

Portugal reaped considerable political and economic advantages from his official visit to Brazil. He generally was considered Portugal's greatest constitutional president.

COLORADO SEEKS TO RECOVER FUNDS STOLEN BY BANKER

Pueblo, Colo., October 31.—(AP)—The first attempt to unscramble the financial tangle caused by the half million dollar swindle which Charles D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, Colo., perpetrated on six New York banks, was under way in district court here today.

A suit seeking to recover $200,000 in cashier's checks from the First National Bank of Pueblo, deposited to the credit of the Telluride bank by Waggoner, was filed yesterday by the state of Colorado.

Waggoner is in New York waiting to begin sentence of ten years in federal prison for using the mails to defraud.

than a year, today was transferred to Barnesville, Ga., vice E. J. Hancock, who has been assigned to duty here.

Hancock will work out of Columbus with W. K. Johnson, Sr.

Both Barnesville and Columbus are under the supervision of Deputy Administrator Fred D. Dismuke, of Macon.

COTTONSEED MAN DEFENDS INDUSTRY AGAINST CHARGES

Columbia, S. C., October 31.—(AP)—Charges that the cottonseed oil industry has banded itself together for the purpose of violating the law were branded as false in a letter written by Christie Benet, general counsel of the National Cottonseed Products Association, which will be published in the Cotton Oil Press, official publication of the association.

Mr. Benet also denies charges that the industry organized to take advantage of the public and said charges that the code of trade practices adopted by the industry at Memphis and approved and accepted by the federal trade commission was "a shame and fraud," and was being used as a "means to bring about illegal and offensive ends" were unfounded.

LEARN THE LATEST WORDS Otherwise One Soon Becomes What Is Termed a Back Number

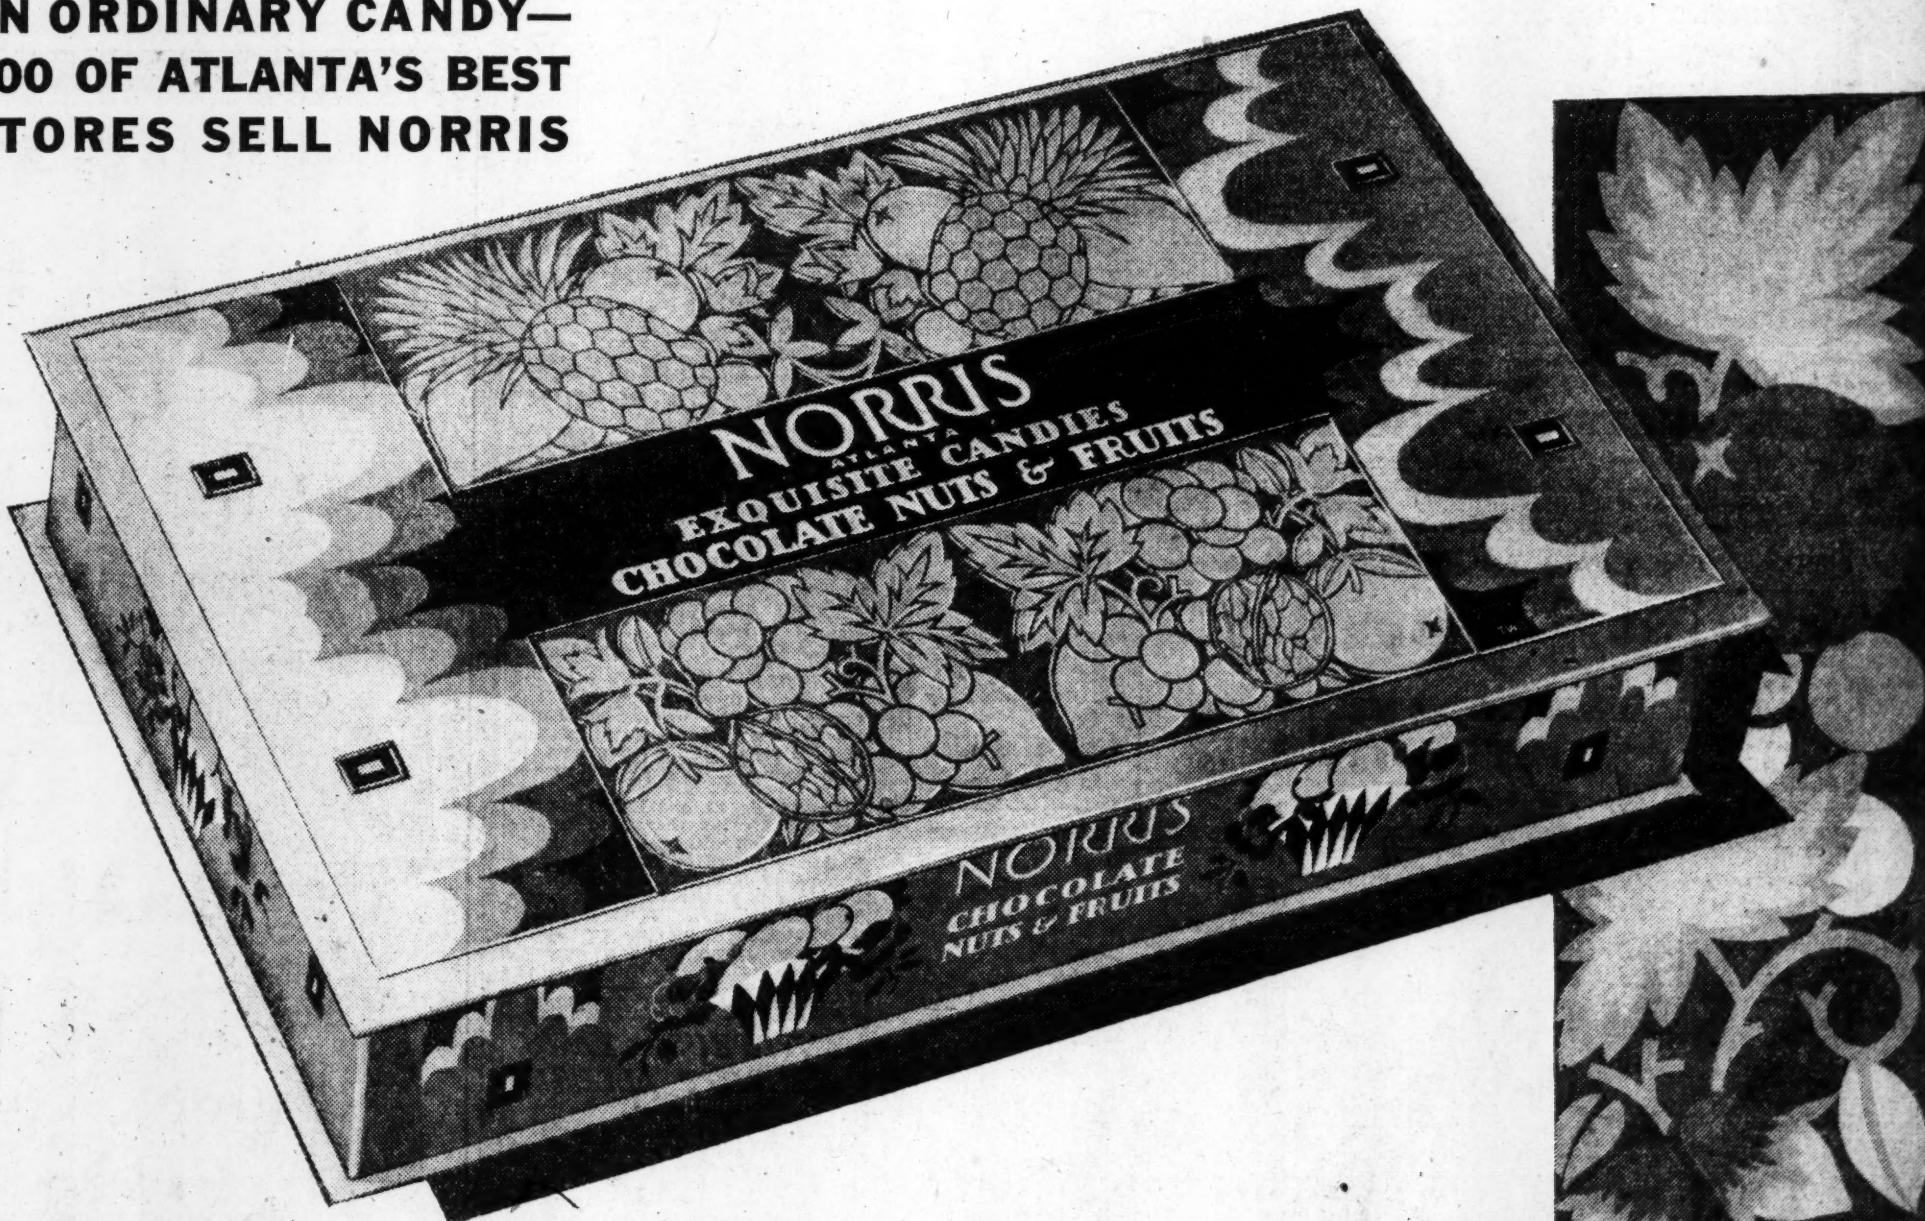

"Words, idle words, I know not what they mean," said the poet. But words are not so idle in these days, as we have more uses for them. In fact activities of the last few years have developed thousands of entirely new words.

In addition to the many words brought to us through scientific research and modern invention, amusements, games, sports, and the like have added their quotas; and if we do not wish to be looked upon as a "back number," we should learn the languages of radio, aviation, golf, lacrosse, polo, and other modern activities.

In the New World Dictionary will be found thousands of new words covering such things, so the older folks can keep up with the young ones, and everybody will be enabled to speak the same language with understanding.

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE CALLED FOR MEETING

Composite Board To Discuss Problems Tuesday Afternoon.

Consideration of Atlanta's parking problem will begin Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of a composite committee appointed by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to work out details and submit recommendations to city council at its regular meeting to be held December 2.

Councilman James L. Wells, chairman, issued the call for the session. Four major interests in the city are represented on the committee which will devote its attention to the downtown district. In addition to Councilman Wells, Councilman Philip Breitenbuecher represents council. Other members of the committee are:

Atlanta Retail Merchants: J. P. Allen and A. L. Myer. Georgia Power Company: F. L. Butler and W. M. Casey. Mayor's Traffic Commission: C. U. Whitaker and S. B. Dodge.

Two widely divergent views which are designed to govern downtown parking will be considered by the committee.

Mr. Allen holds that the present system is working to the best interests of all concerned while Mr. Whitaker contends that the present non-parking streets should be extended. The Allen report has the backing of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, while Mr. Whitaker is supported by several members of the special traffic commission appointed by Mr. Ragsdale to study the traffic problem of the entire city.

CITY ELECTRICAL CODE PROVISIONS GIVEN APPROVAL

Revised ordinances governing conduct of the city electrical department will be offered to the city council at its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday.

New provisions were approved Thursday afternoon at the meeting of the electric lights committee of council.

Alderman Robert E. Gann, chairman of the electric lights committee, and Pat Hendricks, city electrician, declared that the changes are solely in the interest of bringing the code up to date and of making it more convenient for those wishing to qualify as electricians and those who wish to make installations.

Included among the clarification provisions is one requiring applicants to make 75 per cent in an examination before a board of examiners composed of one large electrical contractor, one small contractor, a supervisor and a journeyman electrician. Changes in the old ordinance were sanctioned by the committee after they had been carefully worked out and after a review of existing ordinances in cities of Atlanta's class throughout the nation.

One of the major changes forces contractors to obtain permits for electrical installations before work is begun in order that the city electrician's office may have ample opportunity to inspect the work.

NORTH SIDE CLUB WILL HEAR COUNTY LEADERS TONIGHT

The North Side Improvement Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the R. L. Hope school on Piedmont road. The program will include addresses by Judge Shepard, Can D. Dorsey and Walter C. BOYKIN ENTERS FIGHT ON SCHOOL PLUMBING

Solicitor Institutes Petition To Prevent Installations of Fixtures.

Court action to prevent installation in Brown, Bass and O'Keefe Junior High school additions of toilet fixtures which are said to be contrary to city plumbing ordinances was instituted Thursday by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin on the ground that the public health is involved. Following the solicitor-general's action, R. U. Deming and J. D. Reynolds, who recently filed a petition for an injunction against the city on similar grounds, dismissed their suit.

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy set the solicitor-general's petition on the docket of Judge E. D. Thomas, in the motions division, for Monday. The solicitor-general was brought into the case following action of the city in filing a demurrer to the petition of Deming & Reynolds, the demurrer alleging that the suit could be brought only by the solicitor-general of the circuit when the public health was an issue in the case.

By agreement of counsel, the city will make no move to install the fixtures in the school additions pending a decision on the injunction petition, it was said.

Department Sessions.

Three departmental sessions occupied most of Thursday afternoon. These were the savings, investment and trust department sessions.

Presiding officers were H. Fred Ottman, assistant cashier, Grand Rapids Savings Bank, Grand Rapids, Mich.; John J. Foley, of A. C. Allen & Company, Chicago, and H. F. Pelham, vice president of the Citizens & Southern Bank, Atlanta.

Every angle of these three vital parts of the banking business were given thorough consideration in prepared papers and each address was the subject of open forum discussions.

Formation of the Georgia Fiduciaries Association was completed Thursday morning at a special meeting which had been arranged under the auspices of the Atlanta Clearing House Association. It will correspond to the Georgia State Bankers' Association and will be affiliated with the American Bankers' Association under the trust company division. Its membership will consist of some 75 Georgia banks which have trust departments.

Officers of the newly formed organization are H. F. Pelham, vice president of the Citizens & Southern Bank, Atlanta; W. R. Luttrell, of the Fourth National Bank, of Columbus, vice president; and Haynes McFadden, of Atlanta, publisher of the Southern Banker, secretary-treasurer. The organization meeting was called for Thursday, it was explained, in order that out-of-town trust officers might have the opportunity of attending the "rust departmental sessions" of the convention.

Trust development, commercial and investment departmental sessions will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel to open the day's business. Mr. Pelham will again preside at the trust meeting while Don Knowlton, advertising director, Union Trust Company, Cleveland, and George Dock, Jr., of the Halsey, Stuart and Company, New York, will be in charge of the other two.

Charles H. McMahon, assistant vice president, First National Bank, Detroit, Mich., will preside at the luncheon today which will be featured by an address by Mrs. Frances Rosenblatt, income analyst, First National Bank, Detroit, on "How to Interest Women of Means in Financial Matters."

The afternoon will be devoted to advertising fundamentals and business development, departmental sessions starting at 2 o'clock while the annual banquet at 7:30 o'clock tonight will bring the day's program to a close.

CHARLES KINDLER, NOTED CHEF, DIES AT HOSPITAL HERE

Charles R. Kindler, 64, for the past four years head chef of the Atlanta establishment of the S & W chain of cafeterias, died Thursday morning at a local hospital.

Mr. Kindler had been with the S & W organization since its beginning, and despite his advanced age, personally supervised the preparation of food. A native of Alsace, he came to America many years ago.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sam Greenberg & Company after communication with relatives.

LAST TRIBUTES PAID SENATOR T. A. BURTON

Cleveland, Ohio, October 31.—(AP)—The body of Senator Theodore Alajah Burton lay at final rest today in beautiful Lakeview cemetery, a few hundred yards from the grave of another of Cleveland's distinguished sons, Myron T. Herrick.

Thousands of Cleveland's humbler folk missed their lunch to pass with state and national officers before the flag-draped bier of the senator as his body lay in state in the huge auditorium of Public Hall.

More thousands thronged Euclid avenue as the cortege wended its way down the street under a dark and dismal, cloud mantled sky to the Euclid Avenue Congregational church where pews were packed to overflowing by close friends of the senator.

From the rostrum, banked high with floral offerings from persons in all walks of life, Bishop William McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, of the Washington area, paid high tribute to the statesmanship and honest purposefulness of the man who represented his county and state in Washington for 40 years.

Senator Burton's now famous speech in congress for reduction of armaments looking toward world peace was cast by Bishop McDowell as the high spot of a remarkable career in the national and international affairs.

Asserting that Burton would have succeeded in any profession which he might have chosen, the bishop added: "He might readily have accepted proffered secretaryship of the treasury and he would have adorned the secretaryship of state, or shone as two other Clevelanders, John Hay and Myron Herrick have done as ambassadors to friendly nations."

During the three processions, from the station to the public hall, from the hall to the church, and finally to Lakeview cemetery, the crowds which lined the thoroughfares were silent, the brooding stillness broken only by the soft exhaust of the cars which formed the cortege. The tribute of silence was the greater as men and women paused in hurried rush hours of the day to offer simple respect to Burton's passing body.

At the grave throngs again witnessed the solemn ceremony of the Knights Templars as the silver gray casket was lowered from sight into a valley of flowers.

NASHVILLE MAYOR MADE DEFENDANT IN OUSTER CASE

Nashville, Tenn., October 31.—(AP) Hilary E. Howse, mayor of Nashville since May, 1923, was named defendant in an ouster proceeding filed in criminal court late today by District Attorney-General Richard M. Atkinson, who charged that Nashville, "under the unlawful administration of the defendant, Hilary E. Howse, is approaching the state of bankruptcy."

The petition charged that it will require but a short time for Nashville to reach the bankruptcy state, "if the unlawful deficits and overcharges, and switching and kiting of the accounts to cover up the same continue to increase in the same proportion as they have increased in the past."

The petitioner asked that Mayor Howse be permanently ousted from office, and that a writ of ouster issue, and that he be suspended from performing any of the duties of office pending a final hearing of the case. Pleading of city pay rolls, switching and kiting of accounts, squandering of city funds for political purposes and building of improvements on properties of private citizens at the expense of the city and with city labor are included in the charges instituted in a lengthy bill of complaint.

UNMASKED BANDITS HOLD UP TWO MEN AND GET $55 LOOT

Two holdups, with losses by the two victims of a total of $55, were reported to police Thursday night and up to date no arrests have been made.

An unmasked white man, in a dilapidated touring car, drove into a filling station at Gordon road and Moxley drive, called out for service and when C. S. Askew, of 1513 Moxley place, an employee of the station, appeared he was greeted by a pistol. The stranger took $20 from the cash register and drove off. Call Officers R. E. Floyd and R. L. Moseley investigated.

M. Corditt, 42, of 582 North Highland avenue, a collector, was held up by two unmasked men in what is known as Smith's Bottom, between Grant street and Oakland avenue, and robbed of about $35. He received a slight wound in the left leg when he resisted robbery. He said he did not even know whether his assailants were white or black. Call Officers Arthur Daily and C. E. Floyd investigated.

JOHN BLACKHURST, GUARD AT FEDERAL PEN, DIES SUDDENLY

John Blackhurst, 63, of 806 Washington street, S. W., for 15 years a guard at the Atlanta federal penitentiary, died suddenly Thursday. He was stricken while on duty, and was rushed to his home in an ambulance but died before reaching the residence. In addition to his widow, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Glenn Hilburn, of Miami, Fla.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Sam Greenberg & Company and burial will be in Crestlawn cemetery. Prison Chaplain Fred Sadow will officiate. Pallbearers will be selected from guards at the prison.

Two Fliers Killed As Amphibian Plane Plunges Into Ocean

Bremerton, Wash., October 31.—(AP) Two aviators drowned when an amphibian plane bound for Seattle from Bremerton plunged into the water near Manette late today. The bodies of both were mangled when the plane crumpled upon striking the water.

All Flavor

You'll hear people ask why Heinz Tomato Ketchup tastes so good. So particularly good that it's not at all likely to be mistaken for any other.

It's because of a flavor that's blended and perfected step by step from the moment the sun-ripened tomatoes begin to simmer. And it's a thorough simmering, to blend the delicate savor of choice spices, and to concentrate all the flavor in a thick red essence of goodness. This is the flavor that you, too, will declare is unmatched when once you've tasted it!

You'll find in it the same high quality that gives more for your money in Heinz Rice Flakes, Heinz Oven-Baked Beans, Heinz Vinegars, Heinz Peanut Butter and all the rest of the Heinz 57 Varieties.

Education Association Head Asks Governor To Borrow Funds To Keep Schools Open

Loan of $1,000,000 Is Needed, Alfried Says, in Relating Bad State of Finances.

Kyle T. Alfried, secretary of the Georgia Education Association, Thursday at Macon called on Governor L. G. Hardman to borrow $1,000,000 and to call the legislature into extra session to alleviate the financial difficulties of the Georgia public schools.

Although the chief executive declined to confirm or deny it, it is unofficially said at the capitol that he is negotiating for a loan of about $1,000,000 which he has authority to make.

Schools To Close. The statement issued by Mr. Alfried was based on recent reports that the schools of several counties will be forced to close because of inability to borrow funds to pay teachers' salaries and operating expenses.

The DeKalb county schools will close today, to remain closed until January 1, or until relief is given by the state. The situation, which is the outgrowth of the failure of the state to pay appropriations for the common schools, is also said to be threatening in several other counties.

"We see but one solution to the critical situation that faces the public schools of the state," Mr. Alfried said. "Governor Hardman today has the authority to borrow approximately $1,000,000 to pay the school teachers. He should do this at once.

"The state has no right to force counties to borrow at 8 per cent or more, when it owes the counties money and the law says the state should pay interest on the loan.

"Governor Hardman should call the general assembly together," the statement continued, "to authorize him to discount the rentals of the Western and Atlantic railroad for enough money to meet the state's indebtedness for 1928 to the schools, which amounts to $1,548,884, and also to pay to the public schools and other educational interests the deficits for 1929, which total about $2,500,000. The entire amount due from the state is about $4,000,000.

Favors Certificates. "Of course it is true that the rentals of the railroad have been discounted through 1933, but the collateral is perfectly good. We believe there would be no difficulty in securing the money on this collateral, which is a gold bond security.

"Certificates of indebtedness similar to those of the United States treasury could be issued, bearing 5 per cent interest free from taxation and secured by the rentals of the railroad. If $2,000,000 could be secured at once in this manner, it would be sufficient to tide the schools over the present crisis until a plan can be learned what revenue the new sales tax will produce.

"The sales tax revenue should be known by January 1, or certainly by February. Meanwhile, the certificates could be issued if necessary. They would be the equivalent of 10-year contracts, secured by property worth $25,000,000.

"Here is the way for the state to pay promptly all it owes to the schools. The only question is the willingness to act. It is better to pay interest than to continue in the present situation."

Elder G. A. Smith, Mormon Leader, Here Saturday

Elder George Albert Smith, one of the council of 12 of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and one of the leading officers of that church, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday to hold a two-day conference with members of the Mormon faith in Georgia. He is making an official tour of the southern states' mission, which is presided over by Elder Charles A. Callis, of 489 North Avenue, N. E., Atlanta.

Many years ago Elder Smith traveled as a missionary for the "Mormon" church in Tennessee and other southern states. Before his return to Salt Lake City, where he resides, he will visit Cuba, where it is thought he will recommend the establishment of a branch of the church.

A native of Utah, Elder Smith has helped to make history in that state. Of pioneer stock, he is interested in several western industries and is a director in several banks. He formerly was vice president of the Sons of American Revolution.

Saturday and Sunday the Georgia conference will be held in Atlanta and meetings will be held in the chapel at North Avenue and North boulevard at 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The musical program will be under the direction of Mrs. Florida Gardner, of Salt Lake City, formerly a soloist with the famous Salt Lake Tabernacle choir. Mrs. Gardner will be heard in solos, as will Hal Webster. Instrumental and quartet numbers round out the program. K. Warren Dyal is the organist.

Elder Ernest W. Hoskiter, presiding elder of the Georgia district, will act as moderator.

On his tour of the south Elder Smith will be accompanied by Elder Charles A. Callis, mission president.

ONE YEAR IN PEN GIVEN D. MILLER FOR IMPERSONATION

D. Miller, alias Daniel Miller, was convicted here Thursday of impersonating a government officer when a federal jury returned a verdict of "guilty" after some 15 minutes' deliberation. The trial lasted two days.

Miller was charged with having cashed worthless checks at a local hotel under the guise of being an employee of the postoffice department. He was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary.

Two weeks of civil jury business face Judge Samuel H. Sibley, beginning Monday, following which period the court will spend one week each at Rome and Gainesville.

A. M. E. Conference At Vidalia Conducts Second Day's Sessions

Vidalia, Ga., October 31.—(Special.)—The second-day session of the Augusta conference of the A. M. E. church meeting was held today in St. Paul church here with Bishop M. A. Fountain presiding.

The regular conference Bible institute work featured the opening religious exercises with addresses by Dr. C. A. Wingfield on "The Old Testament Scriptures," and Dr. C. G. Wiley on "Pastoral Theology." Dr. M. A. Fountain, Bethel church, Augusta, led all charges in conference reports.

DR. CREE WILL QUIT AS BAPTIST OFFICIAL

Executive Secretary of Convention Leaves Office March 1.

Dr. Arch C. Cree, for 15 years executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention, is resigning, effective March 1, 1930.

Dr. Cree's resignation, which appeared officially in the Christian Index, Georgia Baptist publication Thursday, will be presented to the executive committee of the convention which meets at Gainesville on November 10. The executive committee, it is expected, will be empowered by the convention to name a successor to Dr. Cree at its December meeting.

Baptist leaders have expressed hopes that Dr. Cree's successor may be named before his resignation becomes effective so that there will be no break in leadership.

Dr. Cree came to Georgia in 1915 to take charge of the mission work of Georgia Baptists and was at that time connected with the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention. His leadership, Baptist leaders said, "has been a phenomenal example of religious statesmanship" during his tenure of office he is credited with steering the convention clear of financial difficulties and raising large sums of money for missionary and benevolent enterprises of the denomination.

For several years Dr. Cree was superintendent of the Georgia Baptist hospital here, in addition to performing his duties as mission secretary. When the home mission board finances became disrupted because of the defalcations of Clinton S. Carnes, its former treasurer, Dr. Cree was called upon to aid in restoring its affairs.

Dr. Cree has no plans for the immediate future, but will go to Gaffney, S. C., where Mrs. Cree and their children have been making their home, and will take a complete rest. After that, it was indicated, he would either

Poll Tax Is Part of School Appropriation, Gov. Says

Governor L. G. Hardman Thursday declared that the state poll tax should be considered a part of the general appropriation to common schools and not as a separate fund available for school purposes.

The decision of the governor was based on a similar opinion expressed by Attorney-General George M. Naper and C. Murphy Candler, Atlanta lawyer, in a controversy in which Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, urged that the poll tax receipts constitute a fund for schools separate and in addition to the regular appropriation of $5,000,000.

Governor Hardman's opinion, it was said, in his statement also was substantiated by opinions of Comptroller General William B. Harrison, State Treasurer William J. Speer, Tom Wisdom, state auditor, and Sam J. Slate, former state auditor.

The governor's statement quoted from a statement to the past general assembly, signed by the comptroller general, the state auditor and the governor, which showed five sources of revenue from which money should go to the schools. They were the poll tax, show tax, half the rental from Hotel Patton, Chattahoochee, dividends from stock owned by the state and the general tax fund.

accept a pastorate or enter some other phase of denominational work.

Dr. Cree was born in Scotland and came to the United States while still a boy. He was educated at Wake Forest college and the Southern Baptist Theological seminary and has held pastorates in South Carolina, Tennessee and North Carolina and for a time was pastor of the First Baptist church of Montrie, his only Georgia church.

Phony Peach Disease Results in Quarantine Of 19 Georgia Counties

Nineteen Georgia and six Alabama counties are included in quarantine areas established against the phony peach disease following new infections found in both states by federal inspectors, it was announced in Washington by Secretary Hyde Thursday.

The order is effective today. The region affected was described as being "lightly infected." It includes the following counties: Banks, Bartow, Campbell, Carroll, Chattooga, Cherokee, Cobb, Dade, Douglas, Floyd, Habersham, Haralson, Heard, Milton, Paulding, Polk, Walker and Whitfield, in Georgia, and Calhoun, Cherokee, Cleburne, DeKalb and Tuscaloosa, in Alabama.

"The constitution provides that these appropriations be paid out of the revenue collected from the above sources for the year for which the appropriation was made," the communication said.

The attention of the assembly was also directed to the statement that the governor had borrowed $2,500,000 in 1928 to advance to the schools, pledging the poll tax and other taxes allocated to the common schools for the payment of the loan.

This statement to the legislature was cited in support of his view that the poll tax money was a part of the common school appropriation.

Governor Hardman also quoted from the general appropriation bill of 1929, describing it as having "clarified the matter" by saying in reference to the common school appropriation of $5,000,000:

"Provided further that the poll tax allocated to the common schools, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is to be credited on this item."

The controversy was initiated several weeks ago when Dr. Duggan replied with a brief to an opinion given by the attorney-general similar to that expressed by the governor in his statement Thursday. The question was submitted to the governor for settlement.

AD CLUB PROGRAM FEATURES ADDRESS BY FRANK HARROLD

Featuring the Advertising Club's program at its regular weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at the Piedmont hotel was a talk by Frank Harrold, editor of The Red Barrel, house organ of the Coca-Cola Company. The subject of Mr. Harrold's address was "How Coca-Cola Seeks the Good Will of Its Wholesale Dealers and Their Salesmen, 20,000 Strong."

Among the guests present at the meeting were Frank Blanchard, of the Cities Service Corporation, of New York, and H. M. Goddard, editor of The Analyst, published by the New York Times, who are here attending the Financial Advertisers Association convention. Both spoke briefly, paying their respects to Atlanta as a business center. They were the guests of L. K. Starr, in charge of public relations for the Georgia Power Company.

The principal speaker at next week's meeting will be Mrs. E. J. Lang, art director for the Norria Candy Company, who will talk on the importance of packages from an advertising standpoint.

E. V. Dunbar, chairman of the club, announces the appointment of Miss Leonora Anderson as chairman of the publicity committee, to be assisted by a representative from each of the newspapers.

Polish Dictator Uses Force To Break Up Diet Meeting Expected To Depose Him

Pilsudski Precipitates Crisis by Action; Papers Printing Story Confiscated by Military.

Warsaw, October 31.—(AP)—Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, ex-dictator of Poland, today climaxed his long standing feud with the Polish diet by invading the parliamentary building with more than 100 army officers and stopping the opening session of the national legislature.

The upshot of this strange maneuver was postponement of parliament until after the marshal and Ignace Dasinski, speaker of the diet, have had opportunity to confer with President Moscicki.

Members of the diet were nonplussed by the happenings of the day, but could only speculate as to what might take place next. Newspapers of the capital issued extra editions describing the affair, but most of them were confiscated as quickly as they appeared on the streets.

The diet had been called for the purpose of discussing the dubet. There had been rumors that the opposition to Premier Switalski, who is a close follower of Pilsudski, was preparing a resolution of non-confidence, but there was nothing concrete in these reports.

Then it was learned that the premier had fallen ill and that Marshal Pilsudski would take his place at the opening of the diet. The house assembled at 4 p. m., but the ex-dictator had not appeared. The next thing the members of parliament knew the lobby was filled with military officers in full uniform. Again there was a long wait and then after nearly an hour Pilsudski arrived. He was enthusiastically cheered by the soldiers. Speaker Dasinski sent a sergeant at arms to the lobby with the request the officers leave the building, but they refused on the ground that the request had been made in a rude manner.

The speaker then sent a letter to the president acquainting him with the circumstances and saying that he was unable to follow out executive instructions and open the diet. Marshal Pilsudski then went to the president himself and the announcement of postponement followed. Tonight political circles were asking whether Poland was on the verge of another crisis. There were diverging opinions as to whether Pilsudski's display of military strength was intended for his personal protection or as a manifestation of a new dictatorship.

Gray led the aldermanic ticket, and others winning for council were D. T. Sutherland, J. D. Bower, B. F. Lewis, T. J. Hornsby and J. C. Hale.

Now Is The Opportune Time To Begin Training At The Southern Business College

Graduates Are Going To Positions Continually.

Monday, November 4, and during the ten days or two weeks following, many young people will enroll at the Southern Shorthand and Business University for a practical business education.

Opportunity Knocks.
Of course those who entered in September and October have a start over those not yet in school, but opportunity knocks more than once for most of us, therefore, those young men and young women who have, for various reasons, not begun their training, will seize the approaching opportunity and enter upon their business courses right away.

Don't Be a Failure.
Procrastination accomplishes the defeat of many, and the world then writes them down as failures. Wise business heads and autocrats say that the Stock Market decline will prove a boon to the country at large and the South in particular. Hundreds are now hard at work in the Southern making preparation for useful careers, and you cannot afford to get behind in the race with your own generation. Get ready for the approaching boom.

Words of Praise.
"I believe your school ranks above all others in the South," writes a former pupil now holding a splendid position.
"And the Southern is the happy recipient almost daily of just such commendations. Another former pupil, who is employed by one of Atlanta's leading firms, writes:
"So favorable is the reputation of the Southern that I did not even write to any other business college for a catalog when I decided to take a business course, and I am now more than ever convinced that I made the right choice of a school."

Business Training Necessary.
The Southern gives below a few expressions from prominent people concerning the value of a business education and they are worthy of consideration:
"I studied bookkeeping, but I learned method." This comes from the

ONTARIO RUM POLICY VINDICATED AT POLLS

Biggest Plurality Ever Given Rolls Up in Favor of Present Law.

Toronto, October 31.—(AP)—Retained in power by the biggest plurality ever given a governor in Ontario, the conservatives today saw vindication of their policy of government control and sale of liquor.

Inaugurate three years ago by the government of Premier G. Howard Ferguson, the government control act was the principal issue in yesterday's general election with the progressives demanding free legislation and the liberals a plebiscite.

The conservatives, holding 75 of the 112 seats at the dissolution of the last legislature, increased their number to 15 with four seats still doubtful today. Premier Ferguson, whose government was returned to power for the third time, was himself returned with a majority of more than 2,000 votes over his prohibitionist opponent, the Rev. T. H. Bradley.

The greatest defeat was suffered by the liberal party, which had expected startling upsets in the rural sections to give them a far greater representation than the 21 seats they held at dissolution. Instead, their number was reduced to nine.

W. E. N. Sinclair, the liberal leader, was re-elected by a majority of about 1,000.

The progressives, who held eleven seats at dissolution, won only three and saw their leader, J. G. Leithbridge, go down to defeat in a three-cornered fight by 35 votes. All the prohibition party candidates were defeated.

The independent conservatives won two seats; three liberal progressives, including Tim Buck, leader of the movement in Toronto, also were defeated.

Premier Ferguson, who has expressed extreme confidence that his party would be returned to power, said he would be guided in his policy of liquor control by a vote of the people. He had declared his willingness to adopt more stringent regulations should they be deemed necessary, but expressed the belief that temperance and sobriety could best be obtained by education in the homes, the schools and the churches. He has promised a reduction in the price of beer.

His opponents had charged the liquor control act was a failure and that crime and drinking were increasing.

KING OF ITALY TO VISIT POPE DURING MONTH

Vatican City, October 31.—(AP)—King Victor Emanuel's long-awaited visit to Pope Pius, the first that a king of Italy has made to the vatican since papal loss of temporal power in 1870, will take place in the first fortnight of November, the correspondent of the Giornale D'Italia said today.

The visit will be of a private character, the king motoring to the vatican instead of using the gala coaches of state.

Pope Pius is expected to return the visit in January, going to the Villa Savoia, private residence of the royal family on the outskirts of Rome. This call also will be of a private nature.

The original plan was for a solemn royal progress from the quinal to the vatican, with cuirassiers and outriders and all the princes and princesses of the House of Savoy accompanying the king and queen.

FIVE MILLIONS ARE GUARANTEED FOR CHICAGO FAIR

Chicago, October 31.—(AP)—Chicago stood ready today to proceed with building the Century of Progress World's Fair for 1933 following declaration by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the fair's finance committee, that $5,000,000 had been guaranteed to start the work at once. It was declared at a meeting to perfect plans for the fair that the exposition would outstrip anything of its nature ever before held.

ALL BIDS REFUSED FOR PRESIDENTIAL YACHT MAYFLOW

Washington, October 31.—(AP)—The navy department today rejected all bids for the former presidential yacht Mayflower and announced that the vessel will be re-advised.

It was not explained why no bids were accepted. The ship was offered for sale after President Hoover announced he would have it decommissioned for the sake of economy. The contract under which the bids were received specified among other things that the purchaser should not use the vessel for illegal transportation of liquor, but it was not indicated this had anything to do with rejection of the offers.

JOHNSON IS NAMED TO BE POSTMASTER AT AUGUSTA OFFICE

Washington, October 31.—(AP)—Nominations of John E. Brecht to be postmaster at Fort Myers, Fla. and Edward R. Johnson to be postmaster at Augusta, Ga., were sent to the senate today by President Hoover.

River Commission Headquarter Orders To Be Carried Out

Washington, October 31.—(AP)—Secretary Good announced today the order for transfer of the headquarters of the Mississippi river commission from St. Louis to Vicksburg, Miss., would be carried out.

The order, issued several weeks ago, was held up to allow time for consideration of a vigorous protest from the organized business and industrial interests of St. Louis.

Good said the plan was adopted for the good of the huge Mississippi flood control project with which the commission is charged, and that neither he nor Major General Brown, chief of army engineers, saw any reason to change it.

The transfer of the river commission's headquarters to a point nearer the center of the flood control projects was decided upon as a part of the reorganization of army engineering activities approved sometime ago by President Hoover.

Two Atlanta debutantes—Miss Martha Worth Rogers, secretary of the local society-girl organization, and Miss Marion Wolff—are scheduled to fly, weather permitting, to Columbus, scene of the football game between Georgia and Tulane. They will be escorted by Mack Tharp and Martin Kilpatrick. The plane the party would use for the flight had not been selected Thursday, but the take-off is slated for the neighborhood of noon Saturday.

Approximately 140 acres of land, located three miles from Valdosta on the Loch Laurel road, will be converted into a modern airport. Chamber of Commerce directors having authorized the airport committee to close a ten-year lease for the property. According to the chamber's present plans, the field will have three runways, two of more than 4,000 feet and one of 3,500 feet. The entire tract, it is said, is practically free of trees and undergrowth and but little work will be required to put the runways in fine condition. It is expected that the new airport will be ready for use by the first of the year.

Extensive plans for aiding the air transport lines in the development of traffic will be carried out by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America following the recent adoption in Washington of a program of activities for the chamber by the officers of its air transport section. The development of air traffic was recognized by the principal transport operators attending the Washington meeting to be the foundation for the development of commercial aviation. They discussed the necessity for concentrating their efforts in one central organization, representing all phases of the aircraft industry, and appointed a committee to consider ways in which the objective might be achieved.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce was authorized by the officers of the air transport section to collect statistical data on air transport operations at frequent intervals to meet the needs of the various air lines. A questionnaire to be sent out monthly, requesting statistics from each transport line, is being prepared. Committees were appointed to study insurance problems and to work out improvements in airports, accounting, facilities for handling passengers, baggage weights and tariffs, publicity and advertising, ticket sales and uniform contracts, mail and express traffic development, handling air mail and express, and agency relations.

LINDY'S MAYAN TRIP CALLED VALUELESS IN SCIENTIFIC WORK

University, Va., October 31.—(AP)—Dr. James C. Bardin, professor of Spanish in the University of Virginia, and student of the Mayan civilization, said in a talk here this morning that the airplane explorations of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh of Maya ruins have no scientific value. In pointing out what he said was the need of "debunking" much that has been done and said in the name of American archeology, Dr. Bardin told of several trips he made to the Yucatan to study Mayan languages. He described his explorations at Tulum, Coba and other ruined cities photographed by Colonel Lindbergh which he said were represented as having been previously undiscovered by the white man or not visited by him in generations.

More Overcast Skies Are Seen For City Today

Still more of the same is the weather outlook for Atlanta today despite sporadic attempts of the sun to break through the clouds here Thursday afternoon, according to the official forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

"There is still a good chance for showers," he declared Thursday afternoon, "and I don't see any hope of better conditions until about Sunday." Temperatures will continue a little warmer until the first of the week, it is expected, at which time a very moderate cool snap is on the program. Thursday's range was from 54 to 65 and today's extremes are scheduled to be approximately 56 and 70.

GIRL AND LOVER SHOT TO DEATH FROM PARKED CAR

Port Arthur, Texas, October 31.—(AP)—Miss Belle Crow, 18, and her sweetheart, William Bird, 21, were shot to death in front of the girl's home about midnight last night.

As the couple walked arm in arm up a walk from Bird's automobile to the front door of the house where the girl roomed, they were struck down by a stream of bullets poured from a sedan parked near-by. The killer sped away.

Two men were arrested but one was released shortly. The other was held for investigation. Officers mentioned jealousy as a possible motive for the shooting.

Miss Crow was employed at a confectionery and Bird was an employee of an oil refinery.

The bodies were found huddled together, their hands clasped.

Malaria Contest.
Quitman, Ga., October 31.—(Special).—More than 2,500 school children in Brooks county are studying malaria, its cause and cure, in an essay contest inaugurated by the board of health and the school authorities of the county. The contest will come to a close tomorrow and the questionnaire prepared by Dr. McClure, county health commissioner, will be filled out and turned in.

Winter Coming

Read how 950,000 motorists made their cars permanently freeze-proof last year

Let G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine give you the same all-winter protection it gave 950,000 users last year. Start the season right. Now is the time to use it.

One filling lasts from October to May

G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine was used by 950,000 motorists last year.

Instead of putting in an old-fashioned anti-freeze that would evaporate and require constant worry over replacement, they put in one filling of G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine and went through the whole winter with it.

One filling of G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine protects your car against freezing for the entire winter. No replacements—because glycerine won't evaporate. No uncertainty. Park your car anywhere in any weather with perfect safety. You're sure of your protection. G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine is a standard product vouchered for by the Glycerine Producers' Association of America. Safe for the car and harmless to the car finish. No odor. Just follow the instructions on the can and get the same satisfaction 950,000 motorists got last year.

It lasts all winter. Put it in your car NOW!

The cold snaps are coming. The sooner you put G. P. A. Radiator Glycerine in your car, the sooner you're protected. It lasts all winter—so why not get the benefit of its protection at once. Your garage should have it.

COCA-COLA EARNINGS
SET NEW HIGH RECORDGreatest Volume of Business
Is Reported to Directors.

Volume of business and profits of the Coca-Cola Company during the first nine months of the year and also during the third quarter of the year were larger than recorded for any corresponding periods in the history of the company. R. W. Woodruff, the company's president, announced here Thursday after a quarterly meeting of directors.

Profits for the nine months were announced as $11,153,283.81 as compared with $9,283,710.30 for the same period of 1928, an increase of $1,869,573.51.

Net profits recorded for this third quarter of the current year were listed as $4,661,321.10 as compared with $3,915,676.01 for the same period of last year and represented an increase of $745,645.09.

As compared with the third quarter of 1928, this year's third quarter involved a 13 per cent increase in the volume of business and a 10 per cent increase in net profits, Mr. Woodruff's statement said.

Mr. Woodruff added that during the first nine months of 1929 the company had earned $9.22 per share of common stock after deducting dividends on its Class A stock. This compared with earnings of $7.35 per share during the same period last year.

At the directors' meeting a regular semi-annual dividend of $1.50 per share on the Class A stock and the regular quarterly dividend of $1 per share on the common stock were declared, payable January 1 to stockholders of record December 12.

Mrs. Theodosia Harbin,
Formerly of Atlanta,
Dies in Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Theodosia Anderson Harbin, formerly of Atlanta, died early Thursday morning at her home in Jacksonville, Fla. She was the daughter of Dr. W. W. Anderson, of Randolph county, Alabama, and the sister of the late Judge James A. W. W. and Robert Anderson, all deceased.

Mrs. Harbin had made her home in Jacksonville for many years and she is survived by a son, Langston Harbin, of that city, and many relatives in Atlanta and elsewhere. Interment will take place this afternoon at Jacksonville.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

Why is it when we would be glad, There is so much to make us sad? —Bob White.

It was the sad old time of the year. It should have been altogether a glad time. It would have been but for one thing—the great fear which all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows felt, but which some felt more than others. It was the season of harvest—the pleasant season after the coming of winter. All the little people had plenty to eat. All were fat. The store-houses of those who stored food were filled. So you see it should have been a glad time.

"It's the unfairness that makes it so awful," said Peter Rabbit to Little Mrs. Peter.

It was the sad time because it was the time of year when hunters with terrible guns carried fear and pain and death abroad through the land. It was the hunting season. It was a season of special worry to Peter Rabbit and his relatives. For Peter and his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Grouse and their relatives, Happy Jack Squirrel and his relatives, all the members of the Duck family, Lord Willoughby and his family, Ring-neck the Pheasant and his family, Lightfoot the Deer and Mrs. Lightfoot and the twins, Rusty Bear and his family, Honker the Goose and his relatives, Bobby Coon and Uncle Billy Possum and their relatives. From break of day until jolly, round red Mr. Sun went to bed behind the Purple Hills, none of these knew a single moment free of fear. All were being hunted by two-legged creatures with terrible guns.

So it was that instead of gladness throughout the Green Meadows and the Green Forest, sadness ruled. Dreadful tales were whispered among the little people. Sorrow and pain and suffering were to be found everywhere. It was the season of dread. In the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows of Farmer Brown's farm alone was there a little peace and happiness. You see, all around that farm were signs, warning hunters to keep off. But once in a while a hunter would slip in when he thought Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were away. So even over the farm of Farmer Brown the shadow of fear lay. Then, too, some of those who had been wounded, but had escaped the hunters, sought shelter on Farmer Brown's farm. A few who had been badly hurt had died there. So even there were sad news.

"It's the unfairness that makes it so very awful," said Peter Rabbit to Little Mrs. Peter. "We all of us have enemies enough, goodness knows. Reddy Fox, Old Man Coyote, Hooty the Owl, Shadow the Weasel, the members of the Hawk family—all are forever ready to catch us if they can. But if they do, it's mostly our own fault. They hunt us for food. It is our wits against their wits. To get us they have to actually catch us. But these two-legged creatures with terrible guns can stand a long way off and kill us. If they don't kill us they hurt us with those terrible guns and we have to suffer. That is the unfairness of it. Then, too, they are not smart enough to even find us themselves. They have to have dogs to find us for them. It is unfair. It is terribly unfair."

Little Mrs. Peter agreed. She knew that all the other little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows agreed also. "Peter," said she, "I want you to promise me something."

"What is it?" asked Peter somewhat gruffly.

"I want you to promise me that you will not leave the dear Old Briar-patch until this dreadful hunting season is over. We are fairly safe here."

Peter didn't promise. You see, he likes to visit the Green Forest and learn what is going on over there. He likes to go up to the Old Orchard and get the news. So Peter wouldn't promise.

John Roach Straton's Death
AIDED OPPONENT IN ORATORICAL CONTEST HERE
Recalls Magnanimous Deed

In connection with the death of the Rev. John Roach Straton, world-renowned fundamentalist leader, at Clifton Springs, N. Y., Tuesday, an interesting feature of his first public appearance here is recalled by L. Press Huddleston, who at the time was employed on The Constitution.

There was an oratorical contest between Mercer university, Emory college, the University of Georgia, and Georgia Tech at the old Atlanta opera house, and Dr. Straton represented Mercer. Comer Woodward, now dean at Emory, represented that institution and Connie Weddington represented the University of Georgia.

Mr. Huddleston explains that the facts in connection with the incident were impressed very firmly on his mind because Weddington was related to the young lady he was going with, and a brother of Dr. Straton was elevator operator at The Constitution at the time.

Weddington, in the midst of his oration, forgot and could not continue. He turned to the judges in his bewilderment and said, "Gentlemen, I cannot go further. I have forgot my speech." He fumbled around in his pockets to find his manuscript, but had left that at his hotel.

Characteristic of his fairness and generosity, Dr. Straton pleaded with the judges to be lenient, and suggested that Weddington be allowed to go to his hotel, get the manuscript copy, return and read it without being penalized for what had happened. The judges and the other contestants agreed, and while Weddington was

NEW STERILIZATION
METHOD MAY SAVE
INFESTED FRUIT

Experiments in heat sterilization of fruit, now being conducted by the federal government, may prove the method through which states now under quarantine against shipments of Florida fruits may be given the option of permitting such shipments, Manning S. Yeomans, state entomologist, said Thursday.

Mr. Yeomans, who had just returned to his office from a conference in Washington with federal quarantine officials, said that Dr. C. L. Marshall, chief of the bureau of plant industry, told him a meeting of regulatory officers would be called in the next week or ten days to discuss the situation.

Heat sterilization, he said, consisted of a treatment in which the fruit is subjected to high temperature and then taken through a cooling process before shipment. Experts have pronounced the method practicable for commercial purposes, Mr. Manning stated.

Commenting on the situation in Florida, he said, "They have done a wonderful piece of work there. I believe that if sufficient additional funds are obtained to continue the work the prospects are bright for complete eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly in the United States."

COUNTY POLICE
LINK FRED CHAFIN
IN AUTO ROBBERY

Surgical instruments alleged to have been found in the possession of Fred Chafin have been the property of C. C. Von Gremp, assistant state veterinarian. It was said Thursday at county police headquarters. Chafin is held in Fulton Tower pending investigation of the case. The surgical instruments were said to have been taken from an automobile during the Tech-North Carolina football game.

EXHIBITION OF KAPPEL
ETCHINGS OPEN TODAYWorks of Famous Young American Artist on View at High Museum.

An exhibition of etchings, the work of Philip Kappel, one of the outstanding men among the younger American group in this form of art, will be shown at the High Museum of Art, beginning today until November 15.

The exhibition will open this afternoon at 3, with a preview for members and friends of the Atlanta Art Association and the museum, which will continue until 8 tomorrow and every day thereafter until the 15th, the collection will be open to the public at the usual daily hours and from 2 to 5 on Sunday afternoons.

Mr. Kappel, who is only 23 years old, has achieved a distinction in his chosen medium which has spread his fame not only all over America but in the leading art centers of Europe. There are 33 exquisite examples of his work in the group sent to Atlanta. An unusual feature of the collection is that the majority of them have never been shown before, the artist sending his newest and finest work for first showing in Atlanta.

L. Palmer Skidmore, director of the High Museum, is especially interested in the Kappel exhibition, in view of the fact that the artist was a pupil of his when Mr. Skidmore was teaching at the Pratt Institute in New York. In fact, it was largely owing to Mr. Skidmore's assistance in finding work for the young Kappel, that he was able to continue his studies with the magnificent result which Atlanta will see for the next two weeks in the collection at the High Museum.

RED CROSS UNIT
IS NEARING QUOTA
ON SERVICE BAGS

The Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross has practically reached its quota of 400 Christmas bags to be sent to army, navy and marine corps men in foreign ports, according to announcement Thursday.

Each of the bags contains eight or nine articles, consisting of wash cloths, soap, games, playing cards and books.

The work of the Atlanta chapter is in collaboration with the National Red Cross movement in making gifts to 42,000 men who will be forced to remain away from their families at Christmas time.

Woman, Ill,
Lives To See
100th Birthday

Canadaigua, N. Y., October 31.—(AP)—Messages congratulating Miss Frances Beaman on victory in her gallant battle with death and achievement of a lifelong dream to become a centenarian, today poured into her little farm home at Chelsea, near here, from admirers throughout the state.

But it was gravely doubtful whether she would ever hear them read. At midnight, which marked the advent of her 100th birthday, the stubborn determination which has sustained her for a week, gave way to peaceful surrender.

"What time is it?" she murmured, a few minutes before the cherished hour, the goal of a life-time still very much in mind. In encouraging words she was told that victory was near. "I'm going to fight it out," came the feeble but determined reply. But whether she actually was sufficiently conscious to hear the big grandfather clock on the landing when it solemnly proclaimed the battle of a century was over, is doubtful.

BELGIAN CABINET
VOTES REDUCTION
IN NATION'S TAXES

Brussels, Belgium, October 31.—(AP) Tax reductions of $25,000,000 have been voted by the Belgian cabinet at a session over which King Albert presided.

It also was voted to replace the existing super-tax with a direct tax. The socialists in proposing such a tax upon a tri-party government program admitted frankly it and the income tax were first steps toward their objective of eventual confiscation of capital.

Free-for-All Tariff Fight
May Wreck Parties

The bitter fight over the tariff now on in Washington, we are told by correspondents on the spot, is something deeper and more serious than it seems to the casual observer. It may appear to the eye as nothing more than a squabble over this or that rate in the new tariff bill, but, strip of all disguise, says the correspondent of the Hearst newspapers, it is "a political free-for-all, in which control of Congress and perhaps of the Presidency are at stake."

"Some ominous possibilities of this new war loom large. Washington hasn't seen such a contest 'since the historic set-to between President Wilson and the Senate over the Versailles Treaty,' writes W. W. Jermaine of the Seattle Times. Today 'both the West and the South are against the East; if such a union can be made permanent, party reorganization will come.' Therefore 'there may be something more at stake in what is now getting under way, than the fate of Mr. Hoover and his legislative program.'"

Editorial sentiment in the leading newspapers throughout the country upon this subject is shown in the leading article in "The Literary Digest" this week, and from it the public will get a clear and searching description and analysis of all its phases and what the fight may lead to. Big Lake Freighters Sink After Crash in Dense Fog, Carrying Seven To Death

One Boat Founders
Quickly—Other Towed
to Port—Heroic Work of Sailors Saves Many.

Milwaukee, Wis., October 31.—(AP)—Ploughing through a heavy fog, two big lake freighters collided 20 miles off Port Washington today, sending one of them, the Senator, down, with the probable loss of seven lives. It was the third major lake tragedy near here within the last 10 days, and only heroic rescues kept the casualty list from including the entire crew of 28 on the Senator.

The ore carrier Marquette, headed for Indiana Harbor, Ind., rammed broadside into the Senator, crushing open its port side. Laden with a cargo of 241 automobiles, the Senator rolled quickly over and sank before its crew could man the lifeboats.

Fifteen of them managed to cling to life rafts and were picked up 45 minutes later by the fishing tug Delos H. Smith, of Port Washington. Three others were saved by the Marquette, which stood by for a time, although badly damaged itself and in grave danger. Three more were saved by the Thomas Walters, another freighter. One body was recovered, but the six others on board have not been accounted for.

With its bow split, the Marquette quickly began drawing water, but was able to keep afloat until tugs, answering S. O. S. calls, came to its rescue and towed it into port at Milwaukee.

Members of the crews of both freighters were agreed that the crash occurred so quickly and without warning that it was difficult to say how it happened. Captain W. F. Amshary, skipper of the Marquette, declined to talk much and Captain George Finch, commander of the Senator, is believed to have gone down with his ship.

Fog Blamed. M. D. McDonald, Nova Scotia seaman, who was on watch on the Marquette when the crash occurred, said the fog was so thick he did not even see the Senator until it poked its nose before the prow of his boat, less than a hundred yards ahead. An instant later the Senator was rammed port side and was lost.

Two of the Senator's crew, Leonard Boss and William Filbeck, leaped down on the Marquette and saved themselves. The third brought in by the freighter was Ralph Ellis, of South Bend, radio operator of the Senator, who was taken from the water. He had succeeded in fastening a lifebelt around himself.

R. H. Edgerton, of Seattle, first mate of the Marquette, said he was off duty and asleep when the crash woke him up. He said almost before he could get out on deck the Senator rolled over.

The Senator was headed for Detroit and points east with its cargo of automobiles. She left Milwaukee this morning. The Marquette set out from Escanaba last night with a load of ore for the steel mills at Indiana Harbor. It was due there tonight. The time of the collision was fixed at 10:40 a. m., but the disabled Marquette did not make port here until dark.

15 Picked Up. The 15 picked up from life rafts were taken ashore at Port Washington, 25 miles north of here. Coast guard crews searched the vicinity of the crash for the survivors but so far as could be learned no others were found. Mrs. Matthew Gormley, wife of the Senator's steward, was believed to have been among the lost. One of the survivors said he saw her slip from the raft and sink. She had been one of the last to leave the boat.

Captain Amshary, reluctant to talk at all, declined to say anything after he had talked to representatives of his company, the Cleveland Cliff Iron Company, of Cleveland, who met him at the docks. The Senator was owned by the Nicholson Universal Steamship Company of Detroit. Both were steel ships and were about the same size, weighing more than 4,000 gross tons. The collision of the two freighters followed closely the sinking of the passenger-freighter Wisconsin off Kenosha Tuesday morning with a loss of more than a dozen lives, and the sinking of the car ferry Milwaukee near the same spot last week at a loss of more than 50 lives. Seamen said the fog today was one of the worst they had ever seen at this time of the year.

GOVERNMENT WIDENS PEACH DISEASE ZONE

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, October 31.—Due to the discovery of new infected areas in north Georgia and northeastern Alabama, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde today announced changes in the existing quarantine order against the peach disease.

Under the new order 19 additional counties in Georgia and six in Alabama will be brought under quarantine regulations, effective November 1. The new infected areas were discovered by inspectors of the federal bureau of plant industry now engaged in eradication work, it was stated.

Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, already has secured a liberal appropriation from congress for the eradication of the disease and is prepared to ask for additional funds if department officials find that it is necessary.

In the announcement today, however, Secretary Hyde emphasized that there is no cause for alarm on the part of nursery stock proprietors in Georgia because of the modified quarantine regulations. It was explained that the department is merely taking every precaution to protect the important peach industry of Georgia and Alabama.

Intensive eradication work was started in the northern and northwestern part of Georgia with the intention of completely eliminating the peach disease from the counties lying areas of infection at the earliest possible date and extending the eradication work eventually to the old centers of infection in the state and surrounding Peach, Bibb, Macon and Houston counties.

The work thus far has included a substantially complete survey of the commercial orchards in the counties named in today's amendment and it reveals only a small number of recent infections in these districts. The infected trees discovered have been or are being destroyed, it was stated. The bureau plans to continue the eradication work; first, by broadening the surveys to cover door-yard and roadside peach trees, and second, by extending the territory inward toward the center of infection as the work progresses.

The federal plant quarantine and control administration, in co-operation with the Georgia and Alabama state departments of agriculture, is meanwhile undertaking to prevent the spread of the disease to outside points by restrictions on the shipment of nursery stock. In order to protect the zone in which the infection is slight and where intensive eradication operations are in progress, the regulated areas will be divided into two sections, known as the "general infected area" and the "lightly infected area," respectively.

Restricted Stock Movement. The movement of peach nursery stock and other restricted articles from either area to outside points and from the "generally infected area" to the "lightly infected area" will be prohibited except under permit. It is the expectation that as the surveys continue and the intensive eradication operations are undertaken closer to the center of infection, the lightly infected area can gradually be expanded to include the counties in which substantial progress is being made toward the eradication of the disease.

The "generally infected area" under the amendment consists of Lee and Chambers counties in Alabama and a large district in central Georgia extending from Fulton and Jackson counties on the north to Quitman, Mitchell and Laurens counties on the south. Except for the addition of Chambers county, Alabama and Warren and McDuffie counties, Georgia, it consists of the area which has been under regulation heretofore. The "lightly infected area" under the new amendment includes the following counties:

Calhoun, Cherokee, Cleburne, DeKalb and Tuscaloosa, in Alabama, and Banks, Bartow, Campbell, Carroll, Chattooga, Cherokee, Cobb, Dade, Douglas, Floyd, Habersham, Harlison, Heard, Milton, Paulding, Polk, Walker and Whitefield, in Georgia. All these counties, except Chattooga, are now added to the regulated area for the first time.

The Inter-City Coach Lines, Inc., Thursday filed a petition with the Georgia Public Service Commission asking authority to operate a bus service between Fairview road, near the city limits of Decatur, and the city of Atlanta.

James A. Perry, president of the commission, stated that the petition was incomplete. Additional information was requested of the company, on receipt of which the commission will fix a date for the hearing.

Mr. Perry said the petition proposed operation over a route substantially the same as that asked in a former petition declined by the commission.

INVESTMENT BANKERS CLOSE CONVENTION

A. A. Zinn, of Oklahoma, Is Named President for Coming Year.

New Orleans, October 31.—(AP)—Calling for a cost accounting system and better business management in the affairs of government, Dr. J. H. Therrell, president of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company of Ocala, Fla., addressing the final sessions of the convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America here today attacked the federal and state systems of taxation as oppressive.

There is no kind of order, plan or effort at agreement in the 48 states in the imposition and collection of their taxes, said Dr. Therrell. Declaring that everything living and yet to live, dead or to die, corporate or incorporate, is taxed, he said, "yet, we pity the poor bolshevik in Russia."

"We are confronted with a system of taxation that belongs to the old cart state of civilization," stated Dr. Therrell, "one that already is so oppressive that in many instances business is unable to exist and maintain the status quo of tax exactions. "It is high time that business and trade organizations undertook through competent surveys to ascertain the facts and cut out the sore spots and put this biggest of businesses on the same plane of cost accounting and business management that obtains in private enterprise."

The bankers closed the convention today after electing A. A. Zinn, of Oklahoma City, president for the next year. In his address of acceptance, Mr. Zinn urged the bankers to keep abreast of the times by analysis of managerial factors in business to evolve sounder policies for keeping abreast of the times in the changing conditions of industry.

FORMER FARM LOAN HEAD IS GIVEN YEAR'S PEN TERM

Savannah, Ga., October 31.—(AP)—William A. Morgan, of Metter, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in the federal penitentiary by Judge William H. Barrett, of the United States district court, early this afternoon after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of misappropriating funds.

The indictment set forth that Morgan, an attorney of the Metter National Farm Loan Association, had misappropriated $2,160.75 given him in January, 1922, to satisfy a lien of Eileen Dekle, a member, held by an insurance company.

CONFEDERATE CHIEF REJECTS 'NO FLAG' IDEA

Will Refuse to March in Joint Parade Without Banner.

Oklahoma City, Okla., October 31.—(AP)—Declaring that Edwin J. Foster, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic had "completely blown himself out of water," by a proposal that the Confederate veterans march with the Union veterans without displaying the Confederate flag, General R. A. Sneed, commander of the United Confederate veterans, said here today that he would reject the invitation.

"So far as I know there can be but one condition which stands in the way of our coming together, and that is for you, as head of your organization, to pledge to us that the Star and Bars, your Confederate flag, shall have no place in the parade... but that you will march under the Stars and Stripes."

The tall, white-haired Confederate commander, who also is state treasurer, asserted that he would take his time in replying, and that he would tell the G. A. R. chief that the south did not propose to be dictated to.

General Sneed sent a message to the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Portland, Me., proposing a joint meeting with the Union veterans. The proposal was rejected. Besides making known his condition, Foster said in his letter:

"In regard to the action of the Grand Army of the Republic regarding a reunion of the Blue and Gray, which has caused so much criticism from our southern friends, I believe such a reunion is possible.

"The boys in blue always have been ready to extend the hand of fellowship to our southern friends and never more than now.

"To the end that a happy result may be obtained, I will say I shall be glad to meet you in Washington or Boston and confer with you on the question of a joint parade."

ZACHER NEW PRESIDENT INSURANCE COMPANIES

Hartford, Conn., October 31.—(AP)—L. Edmund Zacher was elected president of the Travelers' Insurance Company and its associated companies today. He succeeds Louis F. Butler, who died October 23. Zacher has been with the Travelers since 1904 and since 1922 has been vice president and treasurer.

He was born in Hartford June 18, 1878. He is a nephew of Judge Edmund Zacher, of New Haven, who was executive secretary to Governor Thomas M. Waller. He received his education in the public schools of this city, completing his high school education in 1895.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

DEBUTANTES LAUNCHED ON TRIUMPHANT SOCIAL CAREER

Halloween 'Spirit Reigns At Driving Club Ball

The formal launching of Atlanta's 1929-30 debutantes upon their social careers and the celebrating of Halloween featured the annual ball given last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club, the brilliant occasion assembling several hundred members of southern society. Although the 36 beautiful buds, who made their triumphal entrance into the ballroom accompanied by their handsome escorts were the cynosure of all eyes, the presence of a large number of prominent visitors claimed the spotlight of attention throughout the evening and were honored guests in a number of dinner parties.

Debutantes' Entrance.

The beautifully gowned debutantes, whose strikingly modish costumes of satin, tulle and chiffon revealed every shade of the rainbow, entered the ballroom to the blast of trumpets and with their escorts marched the entire length of the room to the E-shaped table where they were seated at the far end of the ballroom. Each debbie wore a shoulder cluster of orchids and carried a diminutive mull made entirely of tiny pink and yellow rosebuds edged with airy flesh-colored and egg-shell-shaded tulle. Showers of valley lilies and pink and pale yellow narrow satin ribbons fell from the center of each mull to the hemlines of their skirts. These floral muffs added exquisite beauty to the table decorations as they were placed in front of each debutante's service plate. Countless bouquets of bright shaded flowers sent the debutantes by their host of admirers formed a colorful mound down the long center of the table broken at artistic intervals by silver candelabra holding lighted yellow tapers.

The debutantes and their escorts included Misses Marion Wolff, Frances Barnett, Boyce Loeke, Augusta Porter, Helena Callaway, Myra Boynton, Sarah Law, Eugenia Morris, Frances Spalding, Martha Worth Rogers, Catherine Norcross, Susette Heath, Jane Dillon, Peggy Poindexter, Lela Yonah Mason, Betty Davidson, Adeline Winston, Frances Howard, Katherine Howell, Elizabeth Branch, Sally Pearson, Adair McCarley, Lena Knox, Grace Powell, Ruth Rowbotham, Phoebe Ellis, Leone Walker, Venita Anderson, Elsie Prather, Littell Funkhouser, Roy Lind Kress, Helen Beasley, Margaret Kelley, Elizabeth Dodd and Mary Dodd and their escorts, including Ralph Paris, Frank Harold, Bill Tate, Roff Sims, Martin Kilpatrick, H. Smith, Stephen Barnett, Jr., Jimmy Brown, Luke Tate, Hugh Loeke, Jimmy Campbell, Dan Conklin, Frank Edmondson, Harralson Argo, John Staton, Heydie Becknell, Elmo Brown, Frank Brandon, Dwight Horton, Buster Bird, Freeman Strickland, Billy Foote, William Perkins, William Crowder, Murray Hubbard, Sam Wooley, Clarence Bickertall, Ralph Phare, Robert Pecram, Dr. E. Colorful Decorations.

Black and orange, symbolic of the Halloween season, were effectively combined in the decorative scheme that transformed the spacious ballroom into a riot of color and provided an atmosphere of revelry and joy for the celebration. Floating from the high ceiling were myriads of orange colored balloons combined with black and orange crepe paper streamers, the colorful balloons hanging in huge clusters from the brilliantly lighted crystal chandeliers that reflected the sparkling golden shade of the balloons. Realistic Halloween figures of owls, bats, black crows and cats were perched along the side walls and upon the massive white columns gracing the center of the ballroom. Weird white costumed ghosts and black witches riding broom sticks stood in the corners of the room half hidden by corn stalks and golden pumpkins from which gleamed weird lights. Illuminated pumpkins resting on brilliantly hued autumn leaves adorned the center of each table where congenial groups were seated for dinner.

Levison-Meyerhardt Wedding Solemnized at Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Regina Levison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Levison, to David J. Meyerhardt, son of the late Judge and Mrs. Max Meyerhardt, of Rome, was beautifully solemnized at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 1307 West Peachtree street. Rabbi David Marx performed the ceremony in the presence of a representative gathering of relatives and friends.

The improvised altar in the music room, where the ceremony was performed, was banked with palms, luxuriant greenery against which stood tall floor vases of yellow and white dahlias and chrysanthemums, flanked with seven-branched candelabra which shed a soft glow over the scene. Dahlias and chrysanthemums were artistically used in decoration throughout the home.

The Musical Program.

Proceeding the ceremony an appropriate program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Bertram Kaufmann, pianist, and sister of the groom. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was used as the processional.

Miss Paula Levison, sister of the bride, and her bridesmaid, Miss Helen Levison, were dressed in black velvet with a becoming model of black velvet fashioned with sleeveless bodice, and graceful skirt featuring the effective side drapery which formed a modish up-sweep. The bride's train was offset with a deep bertha of real lace. She wore a wrist bouquet of pink roses.

The lovely bride, who entered with her father, Arnold Levison, by whom she was given in marriage, was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Walter S. Nathan, of Brunswick. She wore a gown of royal blue velvet fashioned along graceful princess lines. The skirt featured the modish uneven hemline. The "V" neck was offset with touches of Brazilian lace, the same trimming being used at the cuffs of the long, tight sleeves and at

Mr. and Mrs. King Fele Granddaughter At Unusual Party

Mr. and Mrs. George E. King entertained 75 young guests last evening at their home on Peachtree street, at a Halloween party, complementing their granddaughter, Miss Mary King Hart. The guests were met at the door by a hideous ghost who escorted them to the chamber of horrors, which was artistically arranged with cornstalks, pumpkins and other Halloween decorations, and the lights were covered with jack-o'-lanterns. A gypsy tent, where fortune tellers told, was erected in the front hallway. Numerous Halloween games and novel stunts were enjoyed. Assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas.

wanting that fur
since August!

If she wants a fur neck piece she has been wanting it for a long time. And unless she has one already you may depend upon it that she does want one!

You can't pick it up in a moment, this gift that is so much more than just a Christmas present... this gift that is an investment, a compliment to her good taste, a reflection of your own discrimination... requires more than a momentary decision.

So—after you have discovered, by a bit of diplomatic conversation, just exactly what she wants in the way of a fur scarf, it is comparatively a simple matter.

She probably wants a red fox, a cross fox, a silver fox, or a pointed fox... and all these, of the finest quality, are on display (with many other beautiful fur scarves) in Allen's Fur Department on the second floor.

CONSULT A FUR SPECIALIST

Every fur scarf and every fur coat in Allen's Fur Department has been selected by an expert... a man who knows furs and who demands the finest pelts when he buys for Allen's. Furs bought now will be kept for you until Christmas in Allen's storage vault, in a cold, frosty atmosphere that will keep it clear and live and beautiful.

INSTALLMENT LIX.
EXPOSURE.

The message, Dorling noted, was addressed to "Whoever reads this." Evidently it had been sent to every one of the gang.

"Mr. Warren will be pleased to get hold of this," he told himself with a certain sense of satisfaction. "In the meantime there's nothing to do but wait."

He waited throughout the night, for it was not until dawn that the destroyer approached the island and eventually took him off.

After due persuasion the officer in charge consented to dispatch a long wireless message to Mr. Warren.

Jabez Malleron in his house in Barrington square was just finishing his lunch when he received a telephone call from his office.

"Lord Dorling has rung up, sir, to know if you could see him personally at 4 o'clock in connection with some property arrangements he wishes to make."

"I will see Lord Dorling at 4 o'clock," answered Malleron with the staidness of an eminent and extremely respectable solicitor.

He glanced at the clock—a few minutes to 2. Two hours in which to lay independent—apparently independent information with the police that Douglas Harris, the escaped convict, was not dead but at large.

"The police will be bound to act on independent testimony—whatever little arrangements Warren may have made," he told himself.

The telephone again. In spite of the havoc wrought by Dorling there were still one or two faithful members of the gang left—in corners where the police would not be likely to find them.

In five minutes he had given his directions. Then he went to his office and gave undivided attention to his legal work until 4 o'clock, when Lord Dorling's presence was announced.

"Ah, Lord Dorling, this is a pleasure!" When the clerk had closed the door he added: "Before we discuss business let me congratulate you, not only on your escape—but your remarkable success. When I saw Warren this morning he was unable to conceal his intense gratification at the discovery of the island—thanks entirely to yourself!"

"It's very kind of you to put it like that," said Dorling, as if he were flattered.

"You will have heard, of course, what happened to the government airplane that was following you?"

"Yes. And I've heard what happened to the gangster. He is dead. Beesford, his name was. He must have known that he could not come out of it alive!"

"A grand loyalty to his chief, don't you think?" said Malleron reminiscently.

"Loyalty perhaps," returned Dorling doubtfully. "More probably it was blackmail. The poor fellow was afraid of disobeying the chief—and chose that as the way out of the difficulty. I know you think of that chief as a rather magnificent person. Mr. Malleron. To me he is nothing but a sordid scoundrel—a blackmailer—and a coward into the bargain."

"Well, well! I personally should have said that that still remains to be seen, Lord Dorling. . . . You wish to consult me, I believe, in some matter affecting your property?"

Dorling glanced at the clock. "Yes, please," he said formally. "I must first tell you in detail how my property is at present distributed. Thereupon Dorling began a long-winded and detailed account of his family property, explaining everything at ridiculous length, glancing now and again at the clock.

It was a near thing, he calculated. Malleron's patience was practically giving out when there came the interruption on which Dorling had counted.

A clerk came into the room apologetically. "A district messenger has brought this, sir," he said, handing Malleron an envelope. "You will see that it is marked 'Personal and Urgent' or I would not have interrupted you."

Malleron took the envelope, opened it, then bowed gravely to Dorling. "I beg you to excuse me for one moment, Lord Dorling."

Dorling murmured assent while he struggled to control his excitement. The next minute or two would show whether his wild guess that Malleron was the chief had any foundation or not.

While pretending to be lost in a reverie about his own property he actually watched Malleron. He saw him attempt to decode the message from memory and fail—saw him take the little code book from his pocket. Dorling was certain then.

There came a low chuckle from Malleron and then their eyes met. He was holding the contents of the envelope in his hand and began slowly to read.

"Have pleasure in telling you that you are the chief—and an abominable scoundrel—Dorling," he read aloud. "Quite so," said Dorling. "I arranged that that little message should arrive while I was with you. The talk about my property was all eye-wash."

"It was not very well done!" croaked Malleron. "Your statement was very rambling and I had already begun to suspect that you were killing time—though I did not guess the object."

In that moment Dorling came near to admiring the chief. In the face of his exposure his dignity was utterly unimpaired.

"The question is, my dear Lord Dorling—what are we going to do about it, you and I?"

"I don't know what you are going to do," said Dorling indifferently. "I am going to ring up Warren and tell him that I've pulled it off. When I suggested that you were the chief he laughed. He would not even interest himself in this experiment of mine."

"Then we can still come to terms," said Malleron sharply.

"No, thanks."

"Did you happen to glance into my waiting room when you came here just now?"

"Yes. There were three men—looked uncommonly like plain clothes men. They are plainclothesmen. They have come to arrest you on independent testimony that Lord Dorling is really Douglas Harris and that the latter's death was a fiction. I, of course, arranged it—through one of my assistants. They will arrest you as you leave here and take you back to Dartmoor. The best of us make mistakes," he added with a chuckle. "I realize now that I made a mistake in removing you from Dartmoor in the first place."

Tech Courtmen Set for Start

Having been moved up some six weeks on the calendar, the basketball season at Georgia Tech will open on Wednesday, November 13, when the Italian guest team, the Scorpius, will play the first of its four games.

The R. O. T. C. units at the Flats will start work for their schedules at Monday. Each outfit promises a strong squad this year.

A split season has been arranged. The eighth team playing four games in the afternoon and four in the morning.

Boys' High Battles Knoxville Here Today in Prep Feature

TENNESSEANS BRING STRONG ELEVEN HERE

Tech High Leaves This Morning for Game at Savannah.

Boys' High, with several changes in its lineup, will face Knoxville High, of Knoxville, Tenn., at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spiller field in a feature game on the local prep card.

White Boys' High is playing Knoxville, Decatur High will have Athens High as its guest in a home-coming game at Decatur.

Commercial High will play in Winder, Ga.; Russell High will meet Rome High at East Point, and Fulton High will play in Marietta for the remainder of the local schedules.

Tech High will leave early this morning for Savannah, where the Smithies will meet the Savannah Cadets Saturday afternoon.

Boys' High started the season off with a rush and scored 33 points in its first two games while its opponents were scoring only one touchdown. G. M. A. slowed the Hurricane up a bit with a scoreless tie two weeks ago and last Friday Boys' High came back with a 19-0 victory over Rome High.

Since the last game Coach Doyal has made several changes in his team. He has tried out many combinations and none seem to click as he would have them. Today several of those combinations will be used in an attempt to stop the strong Knoxville eleven.

Reports have reached the city that Knoxville has one of its strongest

Pimlico Affair Has Fine Field

Baltimore, Md., October 31.—(United News.)—Seventeen of the nation's best two-year-old thoroughbreds await the start of the ninth renewal of the $40,000 Pimlico Futurity tomorrow. The race will be over a mile and a sixteenth course, an endurance event which will test the mettle of the juveniles.

Gifford A. Cochran's Flying Heels, a son of Flying Elong which won the Kentucky Derby in 1925, has trained well and is expected to be the betting favorite. William Ziegler, Jr.'s, Spinach has shown exceptional speed and will be heavily backed.

W. R. Coe's Caruso is named with Black Majesty but the latter raced at Laurel Wednesday and probably will be withdrawn. Caruso has raced well throughout the season and is regarded as a strong candidate.

Galaxy, a Kentucky filly, and the colt Khura are the two other promising youngsters Khara beat Galaxy in the Selma stakes but has not shown consistent form since that time.

Other named include Harry Payne Whitney's Mad Miss and Murky Cloud. Scared o' Nothin', Jimmy Moran, Sun-Craig, Swinfield, Brown Admiral, Red Rag, Crossbones, Charlie and Quarterdeck. Many of these have minor stakes to their credit and will have considerable backing against the more highly regarded favorites.

Another Large Afternoon.

The first Saturday in November brings on another large football afternoon where outstanding contests are divided into two groups—SECTIONAL.

Far West—Southern California and California. Southwest—Texas and Southern Methodist. South—Vanderbilt and Alabama. Georgia and Tulane. Midwest—Illinois and Northwestern. Purdue and Wisconsin. East—Yale and Dartmouth; Cornell and Columbia, Navy and Penn.

INTERSECTIONAL.

Notre Dame and Georgia Tech. Pittsburgh and Ohio State. Harvard and Florida. Princeton and Chicago.

Five of the strongest teams in the country—possibly the five strongest—all get well tested. They are Southern California, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Purdue and Dartmouth. All five should win, but there is no certainty of a clean sweep. Southern California has a hard game with California; Pittsburgh should beat Ohio State; Notre Dame looks too strong for Georgia Tech, but the latter is always dangerous at home; and the Yale game will prove whether Dartmouth is as strong as the Green looked to be, once it hit its stride against Harvard, with Harsters geared up to go. It is impossible to get away from the promise of a Masters-Booth duel, and while Dartmouth looks to have too much all-around stuff for Yale, it has become quite evident the Blue is not going to be anybody's doormat, especially with little Booth stepping around.

Masters and Booth are two of the best backs of many years, and they are bound to unleash a whirl of action before the day is over. It would seem to be asking entirely too much to expect 144-pound Booth, a sophomore, to match or outmatch Cagle and Masters on successive Saturdays, but he seems to be able to look after himself and his team, no matter what the competition is.

Dartmouth figures to win her first victory over a Yale team, but not without a lot of hustling.

The Still Unbeaten.

Unbeaten and untied teams that move into action include Southern California, California, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Purdue, Minnesota, Notre Dame, Tulane, Vanderbilt, Texas and Cornell. There is a good chance now that Purdue, Pittsburgh, Minnesota and Dartmouth will all finish the year with clean slates. Southern California and Notre Dame meet in Chicago on November 16, and this contest will be one of the most important of the season, so far as any national ranking is concerned. Both are unusually strong, and when they crash together before what will probably be football's greatest crowd the detonation will be heard a long way off.

If Texas can get by Southern Methodist and Tulane can beat Georgia, these two teams also have better than outside chances to romp the rest of the distance without a blot to worry about.

The list of unbeaten teams will be much longer this season than it was a year ago, unless an unexpected amount of skidding and slumping takes place in the next few weeks. Purdue's hardest slams should be against Iowa, but Purdue looks strong enough to keep on winning, with a strong line and a trio of able backs—one of the best backfields in football today.

Tomorrow will be a busy day for southern football, as Florida comes to Harvard, Georgia Tech meets Notre Dame in Atlanta, and at least three decisive meetings will take place when Vanderbilt faces Alabama, Georgia goes after Tulane and Texas mixes affairs with an improving Southern Methodist outfit that is now good enough to bother any one.

Texas has one of her best teams—and it will take one of her best teams to pull away from Ray Morrison's delegation.

Fifth in a Row.

Notre Dame has already slipped by Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin and Carnegie Tech. The latter was figured as one of N. D.'s roughest spots, where in the past Carnegie had dished out a flock of woe in the direction of South Bend.

This was the fourth hard game in a row, and now the roving Irish invade Atlanta, to look after Georgia Tech. Last year Wisconsin, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech and Southern California all whipped Notre Dame. The South Bend team has already picked up its revenge from Wisconsin and Carnegie Tech. Georgia Tech and Southern California still remain, and the latter, through its victory over Stanford, has already served notice that only a great team will remove its scalp. Georgia Tech at home is no mushy spot, although the Golden Tornado of 1924 is not the cyclone of last fall. North Carolina and Tulane have already proved this, and Notre Dame is a much stronger outfit than the Irish were a year ago, stronger in every department of play.

There is always the chance that a team playing a schedule of this type will run into a slump at any moment, but Rockne's squad seems to have enough in the way of quality and quantity to escape any such turn this fall.

Harvard would esteem it more than normal bliss to beat the team that beat the team that beat Yale. Georgia beat Yale, and Florida whipped Georgia. Florida's comeback against Georgia means trouble for Harvard, although Harvard is just as thankful that another Dartmouth array isn't coming to Cambridge.

LIST OF BREAKS AMONG TEAMS GROWING FAST

Kentucky-Centre, West Virginia-Davis and Elkins Are Latest.

By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor. New York, October 31.—(AP)—Football seems to be experiencing a fresh outbreak of family squabbles, especially in the east and south.

Relations have been abruptly broken off in two cases, one involving West Virginia and Davis and Elkins, the other Centre College and the University of Kentucky.

Meanwhile the Army and Navy, in spite of the latest peace efforts, appear further apart than they were when the athletic relations were broken in 1924.

The battered condition of its varsity forces has compelled a Florida institution, Rollins College, to cancel two of its scheduled games.

COACHES WITHDRAW.

At two other schools, Alabama Poly and the University of Washington, head football coaches have been forced to withdraw under fire, following a suggestion of defiance for their teams. These developments, coming on top of the findings of the famous Carnegie report, indicate the great intercollegiate sport is still suffering from "growing pains."

Like the University of Iowa, West Virginia apparently has made a determined and consistent effort to lift its athletic standards to a higher level. In the Carnegie report reference was made to the outright subsidizing of 25 to 30 mountaineer football players, but the same report published this statement from the West Virginia president, John R. Turner, dated April 23, 1925: "We have altogether discontinued the practice of subsidizing athletes. I do not say, as in my judgment no college president can say, that no alumnus is making any contribution to the support of a member or members of our athletic teams. I must say, however, that after careful inquiry I have learned of no case where a student is receiving support because he plays one of our athletic teams."

CAUSE OF BREAK.

The break between West Virginia and Davis and Elkins was contributed to, according to mountaineer authorities, because of the presence in the Davis and Elkins line-up of three men who had played four previous years of varsity football at Haskell institute.

Davis and Elkins has been a giant killer for at least two seasons, beating the Navy last year, West Virginia twice in a row and last week tying the hitherto unscathed Fordham eleven in New York.

The list of athletic breaks in the east alone has grown rapidly in recent years, to such comparatively ancient gridiron ruptures as Yale-Boston college and Pennsylvania-Princeton have been added Syracuse-Army, Columbia-New York University, Harvard-Princeton, Pittsburgh-Pennsylvania.

The Carnegie report, without finding any specific reasons for these breaks after investigating most of them, nevertheless generalized: "In every instance, the immediate cause was bad feeling between the participants, because of the presence in almost every instance, its origin appears to have been an overwhelming desire for victory and the reputation that victory is supposed to bring."

L. S. U. To Play Arkansas Team

Baton Rouge, La., October 31.—(AP) Coach Russ Cohen and the Louisiana State university gridirers of 1925 tonight led the vanguard of an upstate invasion for the week-end, en route for Shreveport, to meet the University of Arkansas at the state fair Saturday in the twenty-second renewal of the north Louisiana gridiron classic.

The entire squad of 36 players is making the trip. They left in a heavy rain which has been the weather menu here for a week, curtailing the program of final workouts for the battle. However, the squad hoped to get in some limbering up on their arrival in Shreveport tomorrow. The starting lineup has not been announced.

Runs 98 Yards.

Smiling John Broaca, of Andover, former Lawrence High athlete, made the longer run ever staged on Brothers field, Andover, in the game with Dean academy. With Dean rushing the ball on Andover's S-yard line, Broaca intercepted a forward pass and scampered for his own 2-yard line 98 yards to a touchdown.

Fathers of Today—

Statistics show that 20 years ago the cost of raising a child to its 16th year was $2,500.00. Today the cost is $5,000.00.

What have you done to take care of this increased cost?

We have a plan that will give you a practical and sure answer to this vital question concerning the welfare of your dear ones.

Rockne Explains Scouting of Tech In Wire to Alex

Explanation of an apparent violation of a football scouting pact between Georgia Tech and Notre Dame was made yesterday in a telegram from Knute Rockne, coach of the South Bend Ramblers, to W. A. Alexander, mentor of the Yellow Jackets.

The telegram, in the form of an apology from Notre Dame for having a scout present last Saturday at the Tech-Tulane game in New Orleans, Rockne said confusion caused by his illness had resulted in the scout being sent to New Orleans by mistake, and he assured Alexander that the information gathered there was not used in preparing for the game here this Saturday.

Rockne's telegram read: "In stress and strain of illness past three weeks, got mixed up and Mills went to New Orleans and scouted you. However, assured you stuff not used. Looks like I will be in bed another three weeks, more or less. It's a tough situation. Hope we have nice game Saturday. I apologize for Mills going to New Orleans. Was entirely my fault due to confusion. Kindest regards."

"KNUTE K. ROCKNE." The Georgia Tech coach wired immediately in reply: "Thanks for telegram. I figured the situation as it happened. Kindest regards and my best wishes for speedy recovery."

CADETS BATTER CARROLLTON AGS BY 38-TO-6 SCORE

G. M. A. Uncovers Successful Pass Attack; Aggies Wage Tough Battle.

By Roy White.

Using a ready passing attack with success, G. M. A. easily defeated the Carrollton Aggies, 38 to 6, Thursday afternoon at College Park.

The Cadets used the pass frequently to score, but Coach Curtis Luckey's Aggies flipped one for 12 yards, which, followed by a 42-yard run, scored the visitors' only touchdown.

Norman Hackney, the star in every G. M. A. game thus far this season, played another great game, but his work Thursday did not stand out above the others, due to excellent teamwork. Paul DeGarmore, speedy and flashy G. M. A. back, came into his own Thursday and literally ran wild with the football. He scored three of the Cadet touchdowns and made two long, spectacular runs. He also threw several passes in the fourth quarter after Hackney had been taken out of the game.

Carrollton was outscored but not outfought. The visitors were out-weighted several pounds and were facing a more experienced team, but they never gave up. Their line play was good and the blocking in the backfield was exceptionally good.

Yellow Jackets Face Irish With Light Week of Preparation

CONVALESCENT STATE CURBS ROUGH WORK

Warner Mizell Ready To Gallop Saturday; Notre Dame Tough.

By Herb Clark.

Saturday the Irish Express will reach the Flats ready and anxious to do the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech to a horrible death.

Notre Dame's warriors of the gridiron will reach Atlanta this morning and conclude their practice period with a short drill on Grant field this afternoon.

And Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets are just before bringing to a close their lightest week of work for a major grid contest.

Coach Bill Alexander, his squad in a convalescent state, has confined his activities to dummy drill in the main, though each member of the Jacket crew has had one day of scrimmage. This in place of the two, often three, usually on the slate.

BATTLES.

Monday the "B" team faced the "A" team on the field. Tuesday was the first string's day. And Wednesday those who had taken part in neither of the two sessions were sent into action. They fared little better against the yearlings than did either of the other two teams, though Pat Barron was shaken loose for a few long gallops.

The freshmen have given the variety plenty of competition this week and have extended the wearers of the gold jerseys no little, putting up a stiff front on the defense and thrusting viciously at the big lads when they took over the ball.

The first and second string squads were kept on their own part of the field yesterday for a long offensive drill. Every play in the Jacket bag was run and re-run until the mentors were satisfied. And they were hard to please yesterday.

DUMMY SCRIMMAGE.

The session was another of those dummy scrimmages, with the two teams alternating on offensive and defensive play.

Warner Mizell, hurt in Tuesday's scrimmage with the rats, was on the field in uniform, his wrist well wrapped. He was unable to take an active part in the session, as his arm was not under full control, but he was promised that this afternoon he would be permitted to get the feel of the ball again.

The Jackets may not have had a great quantity of rough work this week, but what work they have had has been lapped up.

The squad has shown more pep and spirit during the week than at any other time during the season, and has been on its toes every minute.

With the exception of Mizell, the squad is in good shape, and Warner will be ready to go by game time Saturday afternoon.

EFFECTIVE WEAPON.

The shillash seems a crude weapon with which to combat a Yellow Jacket, but it should prove effective if it

Clemson Tigers Workout Here

Clemson's undefeated Tigers will stop over in Atlanta today and workout on Grant field while en route for Lexington, Ky., to play the University of Kentucky Wildcats in one of the feature games of the week in the conference.

This will be the only chance Atlanta fans will have to see Josh Cody's fighting Tigers who have gone through the season so far without losing a game.

The Tigers will arrive at 9:30 o'clock this morning and after the workout here will board the crack Ponce de Leon train for Lexington.

Duke Trammell Arrives Today

Duke Trammell, Fort Worth welterweight, is expected to arrive in Atlanta today and begin preparations for his fight Friday night, November 8, with Ted Goodrich, popular Atlanta scrapper. It will be the main fight of the first card to be promoted by the Atlanta post of the American Legion.

Spike Webb and Spider Kelly have been booked for 10 rounds in the semi-main event. There will be 32 rounds of boxing in the legion's initial card, which will be held at the city auditorium.

Members of the athletic committee of the American Legion are very much interested in building up the fight game in Atlanta and it is their intention of promoting a series of welterweight fights in the hope of securing an opponent for Jack Fields.

Funds derived from the fight will go into a fund, from which an outdoor arena will be constructed. It is planned to construct the arena next spring.

Four Georgians Win Rifle Honors

Four Georgians are listed as being among those who won ratings at the national individual rifle matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, this summer, according to the official records just issued.

Edward S. Barrett, of Danielsville, was awarded the highest ranking of the group, expert rifleman, with a score of 255. He was closely followed by Robertson L. Malone, of Mansfield, 249; Charles P. Maddox, of Horthon, 247; and Russell Speights, of Decatur, 246. Each of this trio won the rating of sharpshooter.

The fourth corps area team, of which they were members, was coached by Captain Norman McNeill, of Gainesville.

lands. The Irish, here with the intention of directing their blows well and with a reputation for skill in the use of that weapon, may well believe that they will land. Certainly the odds favor them.

Yet Tech's Jackets, spirited and full of fight, are studiously ignoring the odds. Should they be beaten, as seems just a little more than possible, it will be by a team which has demonstrated a real knowledge of football, and a real and expressed desire to use that knowledge.

GEORGIA WINDS UP PRACTICE IN SCRIMMAGE

Davidson and Waugh Shine—Team Leaves for Columbus and Tulane.

Athens, Ga., October 31.—With the shouts of the student body ringing in their ears, the University of Georgia coaches and football players boarded a train here at 8 o'clock tonight for Columbus, Ga., where they will attempt to give the championship aspirations of Tulane a jolting. Accompanying the team was the Georgia band and several hundred students.

The Georgia coaches departed from the customary light workouts on days preceding a game and sent their team through a light scrimmage in which every man on the varsity squad took part. The scrimmage was long enough to allow each man only about five minutes of work before being replaced.

John Davidson and Armin Waugh, who have been out of the scrimmages all of the week, got into the harness long enough this afternoon to score two touchdowns. Davidson was playing through the middle of the freshman line for long gains, while Waugh was constantly skirting the end and running off tackle for 30 and 40 yards. Another halfback who was making long gains during the scrimmage was Ed Hamilton. Hamilton is a new man at the halfback position, but has been showing up remarkably well in the last few scrimmages.

The entire team looked good this afternoon. It is the first time since before the North Carolina game that the entire squad has appeared ready to go. Most of the players have been out of the hard part of the scrimmages this week and have stored up plenty of energy which they are anxious to burn against Banker and company.

With the exception of Red Maddox, Austin Downes and Red Smith, the players are in good condition. The above-named will be out of the game tomorrow, according to Coach Harry Mehre. With, however, the return of Waugh and Davidson and the improvement of minor injuries of other players, the Georgia team will take the field tomorrow in better condition than they were against Florida.

Tommy Paris will probably start at quarterback against Tulane. It will be his first game this season, but he is by no means new at the work. During the most part of last season he was the first assistant to H. F. Johnson and ran the team in commendable fashion. Paris has shown fine form during the practices this week.

The following football players made the trip to Columbus tonight: Center, Captain Joe Boland, Tassapouos and Upchurch; guards, Red Leathers, Maddox, Patterson, Stelling, Bennett; tackles, Rose, Lynn, Bryant, Frisbie, Buchanan, Ringel; ends, Vernon Smith, Red Smith, Maffett, Keller, Palmer, Timmons; quarterbacks, Downes, Moran, Paris; halfbacks, Dickens, Chandler, Vaughn, Davidson, Gerding, Hamilton; fullbacks, Rothstein, Roberts and Jackson.

Georgia in Tough Spot, Coach Stegeman Says

Injuries To Stars Hurts Bulldogs in Battle With Wave—Other Games Reviewed.

By H. J. Stegeman,

Director of Athletics, University of Georgia.

Athens, Ga., October 31.—The coming week in football bids fair to be as interesting as any past week in the current season.

Tulane's victory over Georgia Tech has put the Green Wave out in front alongside of Tennessee and Clemson. Tulane was pretty generally conceded a fine chance for a good record early in the year, but it most certainly outlived these predictions vigorously in the smashing first half victory over Georgia Tech.

Three touchdowns over Georgia Tech in one half is an effort that claims attention. I can recall no other instance of this in the last five years, except perhaps Notre Dame. Of course, Tech was not in the best shape to meet a team of Tulane's speed and power, and the injuries of this game, psychologically.

But from the detail, it would have taken a real outfit to have held Banker & Company in check.

Tulane's sudden rise in effectiveness makes this week rather precarious for Georgia. Facing a team that is finding the crest of success, with patched line-up, Georgia will be hard-pushed to make a close game of it.

From an offensive point of view, Georgia showed great improvement against Florida over the performances against Yale and North Carolina, a very encouraging improvement. Georgia's play in the first quarter last Saturday was of the high type, two nice series of gains giving two good scoring chances. A poorly thrown pass, to a receiver who had gone down the field, too, spoiled a sure touchdown against Florida.

What bearing this score might have had on the game can only be guessed, but the complexion might have changed.

Defensively Georgia did not play up to earlier standards, however, it has been a long time since Georgia has had such a poor Florida produced from the backfield. The "Gator backs" ran superbly, with terrific drive. I confidently expect Florida to play the field to the hilt this week if the backfield can in any measure approximate the form it flashed Saturday in Jacksonville.

Florida's line will hardly be able to hold Harvard, as the Crimson is too easily drawn out of position, and the ends are too easily circled, but would stake the ability of the Gator backs against any set of ball carriers in the country.

Alabama-Vanderbilt will be interesting. Vanderbilt had not yet shown enough stuff to give anyone a good idea of their strength, but you can never figure Vanderbilt out. Alabama has great power, but it is very evident that Wade lacks the backs to have a truly great team. The ponderous line of Alabama is a fine defensive foundation, but the extreme weight must be counterbalanced by terrific speed or unusual ability in the backfield. This Alabama lacks.

Tennessee's line, as it is this week, and should meet Vanderbilt undefeated on November 16. Kentucky is apt to win from Clemson.

JACKETS-IRISH. Georgia Tech will have a hard time with Notre Dame's Bulls. The Bulls are keen for their third consecutive revenge game. They have defeated Wisconsin and Carnegie Tech on such things. Notre Dame stands in a fine position as far as the rest is concerned, as it has only Georgia Tech and Drake to overcome before meeting Southern California in Chicago on November 16 for the greatest game of the year.

Southern California's victory over Stanford makes it favorite over California this week-end and a victory for Notre Dame and Southern California will set the stage for a record football crowd, 150,000 an assured figure. Notre Dame will rate high this year and Atlanta fans may see another national champion team in action this fall after all. Yet Notre Dame will have the Army and Northwestern after the California game, so all this may be very premature.

BOOTH VS. MARSTERS. In the east interest centers in the Yale-Dartmouth game, or rather the Booth-Marsters duel. It would be almost too much to expect to ask Booth to repeat after his great game against the Army, but then the game is true of Marsters, after his wonderful last half game against Harvard. I feel as if Dartmouth will win, but I can think of no more uncomfortable feeling than one would have if he were foolish to wager against Booth.

In the Big Ten conference, Purdue and Minnesota have grabbed the spotlight for the week. Purdue faces Wisconsin, with a fine chance to win. Minnesota meets Indiana, and this game should give the Hoosier no-shave club another week of holding out against shavers and cosmetics. The University of Indiana students and coaches have banded together with a vow that none will shave or use cosmetics until after a conference victory; with Minnesota and Purdue both leading the conference, in the offing, it looks as if there will be many boys ready to masquerade for Santa Claus when winter comes. Illinois, still in the fight with one tie game against its record, should win from Northwestern. Ohio State will probably lose to Pittsburgh, another team to watch in the national first ratings.

have if he were foolish to wager against Booth.

On Coach Smith's Bullup team are several well-known prep school players, Keys, who hails from Chattanooga, has played the part of such famous line carriers as Cy Bell, Albin Booth, Branch, Crabtree and Billy Banker. Then there are such other players as Buster Mott, Tech High star; Harlan, all-state halfback from Florida; and Sullivan, another product of Tennessee, and Collins, all-state center, from Florida.

These boys will work behind the heaviest freshman line that Georgia has had in several years.

The freshmen will use Tulane players against the Baby Tigers. They used these players against thearsity on Wednesday in a 30-minute offensive drill and scored four touchdowns, which indicates that they have gotten the plays down pretty well.

VANDY IS SET FOR ALABAMA TIDE SATURDAY

Commodores Face Three Big Games in Row. Tech, Vols Next.

By Blinky Horn,

Sports Editor, Tennessean.

Nashville, Tenn., October 31.—That hubbub you hear arose from comrades of the Commodores who are beginning to jabber like magpies concerning the likelihood of Vanderbilt having considerable to say about this Dixie pigskin plume.

That deathly silence, which you may or may not have noticed, is bred by Colonel Dan McGugin, who declines to say "yes" or "no" when conference news is mentioned. The Vandy pilot insists on playing one game at a time. He emphatically, although politely, refuses to gaze beyond "his nose." And his nose knows now that these Tusculum titans, who come to Dudley field on Saturday, must be halted. Or Vandy will vanish into oblivion with Tech and Georgia and every other outfit which nourished an ambition to sit on the football throne down here.

Few contenders remain in the Dixie hunt. All the giants have fallen save Tennessee and Vanderbilt. Tulane, Louisiana State and Kentucky are among the folks who are eager to be the guest of honor at the championship ceremony. The heavy artillery for the most part has turned to pigskins.

The Commodores can only let out a clamor about the crown by sweeping Alabama, Tech and Tennessee aside. Which happens to be an extremely tidy assignment. There is no more danger along that trail than lurks in the path of some gent who has incurred the displeasure of Chicago's gangland.

GOOD CHANCE AT TITLE. Yet if Vandy can bounce along in front of the Crimson, the Yellow Jackets and the Vols from Knoxville, the Commodores not only will interrupt the plans of Tennessee to invade Rose Bowl, but they will have a hope to say about the Dixie title. That in granting either Tulane, Clemson, S. C. or some other outfit should keep its shield undented. For certainly whoever bestows this football spectator would make some inquiry as to the caliber of opposition in case there should be more than one unbent end in Dr. Sanford's conference.

L. S. U. has not and will not encounter the thorough path which Vandy must travel. The mighty wave from Tulane must wash away Georgia and L. S. U. before it can present unblemished credentials for admission to the pigskin cupola.

TOUGH SAILING. The ensuing three weeks for the Commodores will be hell and high water. As well as fire and brimstone. To expect them to flatten three such enemies as Alabama, Tech and Tennessee without an intervening rest game is making a demand that is not impossible to fulfill, of course. Still, it is one that will severely tax all the resources and energies of Vandy and be dependent to a large extent upon the mental and physical condition. To march over such a battlefield to triumph may not be a mole skin miracle. But it will be a pigskin phenomenon.

The McGugin warriors must carry a heavy burden. They will be forced to constantly keep the edge of their blade whetted to keenness. Which is a difficult chore to perform. Any blade is apt to become blunted hacking away at the massive Alabama line the resourceful Tech tribe and the dashing, tricky, valiant Vols of Tennessee.

There is a rapidly crystallizing suspicion that Vandy can build a dyke that will hold in check the Crimson Tide. Alabama's smashing triumph over Sewanee was not an accurate index to what the Wademen can or cannot do. That is either on attack or in defending their own blockhouse. There is tremendous power stored up in this Alabama team. But it creates the impression of depending more upon brawn than upon skill. Brute force is the chief weapon of the Crimson.

POWERFUL LINE. The line charges shoulder to shoulder, mowing down the enemy like a scythe. The backfield is not flexible.

Monk Campbell is the most dangerous attacking weapon in the Wade armory. He is a true symbol of the spm play. He wiggles all the time.

Tony Holm, of course, has been the big shot from Alabama. He gained more ground against the Tigers than the collected effort of the pathetic Purple people. That is from scrimmage. The herculean back driving with savage power lugged the football 128 yards. Sewanee's feeble attack gained only 13 yards through the line. Why they ever attacked such a barrier of beef is a mystery. Their assault was dashed back like a dipper of water flung against Gibraltar.

Tony Holm drives viciously. Grabbing that giant is like holding an auto by the front and rear wheels. But Monk Campbell weaves and threads his way along. With him at Tennessee, Wallace Wade believes he would have won. In fact, he knows he would have won. At least, he says he knows it.

PLAYED JUST ONCE. But they never play these games but once. And a team which could make five touchdowns against Sewanee—even though two were gifts resulting from bunglesome and unwise play—could not make five inches at Knoxville when it was so desperately needed. For one thing Tennessee had Gene McEver, that mighty man, to leap forward and smother two Alabama threats. Sewanee had no such defender as the glittering McEver, called "the greatest back in Dixie."

The Bama assault against Sewanee shed little illumination to Vandy spies as to what character of offense the Wademen will hurl against the Commodores. No pass was attempted until two touchdowns had been registered by pie-driving hammering at the line and the Sewanee ends. Sewanee's offense did not test Alabama defensive ability one iota. Until Jeffries intercepted a pass in the final quarter the Purple was never across the midfield. In fact the Tiger was not abreast of the dividing line on the battleground until Jeffries stabbed that pass. The Tiger aerial attack carried it to the 15-yard marker. But there the candle was snuffed out. Sewanee, with a buzzy whip, went bear hunting. But the bear gobbled the Purple up. Or down, as the case may be.

Vandy Seeking 'Dry' Grid Crowd

Nashville, Tenn., October 31.—The Vanderbilt Athletic Association today issued a statement requesting "the co-operation of the public to prevent drinking and drunkenness at the Alabama game on Saturday and the subsequent games."

The statement pointed out that "all tickets are sold expressly subject to revocation, and the athletic association gives notice to the public, which includes the student body, that it will revoke the license of any who may be found drunk or drinking at the games."

"The university authorities and the athletic board have joined in requesting the chief of police to furnish additional policemen to enforce this requirement."

Crimsons Leave For Nashville

University, Ala., October 31.—Twenty-eight men who make up Alabama's Crimson Tide were hustled aboard a train at 9:20 Thursday night for the trip to Nashville, where the Tide will be hosted upon the Vanderbilt Commodores Saturday.

The Alabama cheering section will follow Friday via special train.

Despite strengthening of the Tide backfield by return to the starting team of "Monk" Campbell and John Suther, recent casualties, Coach Wallace Wade will no doubt rely chiefly upon a great forward wall.

Prominent among the Crimson combers who will lead the Alabama attack are Milton Smith and "Boo" Clement, giant tackles; Freddy Singleton and John Miller, powerful guards, and Jimmy Moore and Albert Elmore, a duo of vicious flankers who fight during every moment of play.

Coach Wade drove the Crimson through a brief, furious final practice session Thursday afternoon. A speedy dummy scrimmage was topped off with a snappy signal drill that the boys went through enthusiastically.

The Crimson mentor called it a day at 4:30, giving the Tide men their first abbreviated work day in quite a while. The Tide men left in good spirits, appearing to be greatly amused over the turn things have taken under dog in the dope sheets.

Rain during the past few days has turned the field into a muddy mass, although the weather man promised relief tonight. Along with the cessation of rain, he predicted a sharp drop in temperature, possibly around freezing. In this case, the South Carolinians will be at a distinct disadvantage.

KENTUCKY 'OUT' TWO HALFBACKS FOR TIGER TILT

Gamage Begins Working On Subs—Plans Fake Lateral Passes.

Lexington, Ky., October 31.—Following a dismal scrimmage on Stoll field flats here this afternoon, indications were that two second-string halfbacks would start the game for the University of Kentucky against the Clemson Tigers Saturday.

When it was reported that Jack Phipps, second-string fullback, had suffered one of his fingers to be broken in four places, and that Tom Phipps' shoulder injury will not permit him to start against Clemson, Coach Harry Gamage began working on new plays with four halfbacks taking over. Richards, Spicer, Kelley and Toth being the participants. It is thought that Gamage will open up a dazzling offense of fake lateral passes against Clemson, an offense the like of which Kentucky fans have not seen in many years.

Pete Drury, all-southern tackle of last year, reported this afternoon with only one eye available for use, the other being swollen shut on account of a deep cut sustained in scrimmage Wednesday. The wildcard line is expected to be at its best against the only men with the human wall overaging 195 pounds from end to end.

Clemson's line will be out-weighted slightly. Kentucky's starting backfield will average 160 pounds, against 195 for Clemson. Thus it is seen that two undefeated teams, evenly matched in weight, will fight it out to determine which shall remain in the S. I. C. race for the championship.

Rain during the past few days has turned the field into a muddy mass, although the weather man promised relief tonight. Along with the cessation of rain, he predicted a sharp drop in temperature, possibly around freezing. In this case, the South Carolinians will be at a distinct disadvantage.

Roper Picks Georgia, Vandy and Notre Dame To Win Games

Harvard Favored Over 'Gator Team

Yale, Tennessee, N. Y. U., Brown and Navy Also Picked by Famous Coach.

By W. W. Roper.

Princeton Football Coach.

Among the outstanding football games tomorrow in the east are Yale-Dartmouth and Pennsylvania-Navy, and the intersectional battles, Princeton-Chicago, Harvard-Florida, and Army-South Dakota.

The Yale-Dartmouth game will be close. Both teams are strong and it will be a battle from start to finish. Booth, of Yale, and Marsters, Dartmouth, are two of the best backs in the country and exceptionally hard to stop. If Yale doesn't have a leadover after her hard game with the Army I favor Yale. But Dartmouth showed great power in outplaying Harvard, 34-7.

The Pennsylvania-Navy game will be another close one, and it is hard to pick the winner. Pennsylvania, though defeated, put up a good game against the strong California team, but had to resort to a dropkick to beat Lehigh last Saturday. Lehigh, however, has its best team in years. Penn has good backs in Gentle and Masters. The Navy line should be stronger than Penn's, and Navy has a big, rugged team. Spring in the backfield is good. Pennsylvania will fight hard to retaliate for last year when Navy won, 6-0.

FEATURE GAME. Of the intersectional games perhaps the most interesting is Princeton-Chicago. These teams played for the first time in 1921, in Princeton, when Chicago won. The return game was at Chicago the following year, and at the end of one of the most spectacular football battles ever waged Princeton was ahead, 21-18. This year Chicago is at Princeton.

After her stinging defeat last week by Purdue, Chicago probably will come back strong and play a good game against Princeton. But if the Princeton players show the same fighting spirit as against Navy, I pick them to win.

HARVARD FAVORED. Florida meets Harvard at Cambridge, and will undoubtedly play a good, close game. Florida, after having defeated Georgia 18-0, may have a slight leadover, and the long trip north is hard. On the other hand, Harvard, after its defeat by Dartmouth, will try a strong comeback and should play a good game. The Harvard team undoubtedly has power, particularly in the line. I pick Harvard to win.

The Army plays South Dakota at West Point and should have been able to recuperate sufficiently from the Yale game to win. A rugged team like the Army, with such backs as Cagle and Murrell, will not lose two weeks in succession.

Cornell meets Columbia at Ithaca, and in that will be a great fight. Columbia has an outstanding back in Hewitt, who may make trouble for the Ithacans. However, I pick Cornell.

Georgia-Tulane will be close. My choice is Georgia. The teams seem evenly matched.

Georgia Tech won from Notre Dame 13-0 last year, but I doubt if it can do this tomorrow. Rockne's team is especially good, and I think Notre Dame will win.

I pick Vanderbilt over Alabama, though the game will be close. V. M. I. should beat Davidson and Southern Methodist should defeat Texas. Tennessee should have little trouble with Alabama Poly and Sewanee should win from Mississippi.

Syracuse and Penn State are another close game. Each is good. Syracuse should win.

New York university meets Georgetown at New York. Last year Georgetown won, 7-2, but I look for the reverse tomorrow, though the game will be close.

Pittsburgh plays Ohio State and should come out victor. Ohio State showed a leadover last week in its tie with Indiana, but Pitt looks stronger any way.

Brown should beat Holy Cross. Last year Brown won, 6-0, and tomorrow it should be close again.

Georgetown, Ky., will win from Kentucky Wesleyan and Williams should have little trouble with Union. Colgate should win from Hampden-Sydney. Lehigh from Muhlenberg and Marquette from Virginia. Rutgers should beat Ursinus.

CADETS BEAT CARROLLTON

more. None of the points after touchdowns were made.

In the fourth quarter, after Hackney had been taken out of the game, DeGarmo threw several short passes to Suddeth at left end. The final pass over the goal line was good for 16 yards and a touchdown. DeGarmo then dropped-kicked the goal for the extra point.

MICKEY THINKS OF NEW CROWN

Turns Attention to Light-Heavy Title After Victory Over Hudkins.

Los Angeles, Cal., October 31.—

(United News.)—After successfully defending his title against Ace Hudkins for the second time in a 10-round bout last night, Mickey Walker, of Rumbon, N. J., world middleweight champion, today turned his attention toward the vacant light-heavyweight title.

A crowd of 25,000 paid about $110,000 to see Walker decisively defeat Hudkins at Wrigley field. Referee Jack Kennedy gave six rounds to Walker, called three even and gave one to Hudkins.

There was never a moment during the fight when Hudkins looked anything like a winner. Walker, weighing 150 1/2, entered the ring in perfect condition, and got off to a whirlwind start by winning the first three rounds. Walker opened a cut over Hudkins' left eye in the early rounds and it bled during most of the fight. Hudkins weighed 156.

Hudkins gave Walker far less trouble than he did in Chicago in August, 1926, when many thought the Nebraska Wildcat was entitled to the decision. It was not until the eighth round last night that Hudkins was able to win a round, taking that session by virtue of a punishing body attack in close.

The fourth, seventh and ninth rounds were called even.

Manager Jack Kearns announced today that Walker would not defend the middleweight title again until the next outdoor season in the east, but would make an attempt to win the light-heavyweight championship relinquished by Tommy Loughran.

Battalion Grid Teams Ready

Battalion football will start in earnest at Georgia Tech Monday afternoon as the Infantry and Ordnance teams meet to pry the lid off the schedule.

The battalion grid slate is the first of a series of events prepared by Head Coach W. A. Alexander designed to bring the greatest possible number of men at the Flats out for some sport.

The battalion teams, playing football, basketball and baseball, and the fraternity teams, playing basketball and baseball, will send a large number of men into the Flats today.

The inter-battalion and inter-fraternity track meets will furnish action for more.

The battalion gridriders have been hard at work for the past two weeks in their drive to be prepared for the coming games, and have produced squads which should make for stiff competition.

The first standing will be figured on a percentage basis. In case of a tie, post-season games will be played to settle all doubts.

more. None of the points after touchdowns were made.

In the fourth quarter, after Hackney had been taken out of the game, DeGarmo threw several short passes to Suddeth at left end. The final pass over the goal line was good for 16 yards and a touchdown. DeGarmo then dropped-kicked the goal for the extra point.

Southern California Faces Test Saturday

Howard Jones Expects Hardest Game of Year From California Outfit.

By Howard Jones,

Coach Southern California.

Los Angeles, Calif., October 31.—Just because Southern California defeated Stanford 7 to 0 last Saturday there is no reason for Trojan supporters to consider the game with California already won. When we meet the Golden Bears I expect one of the toughest games on our schedule.

Reports from Berkeley indicate that the California team is greatly improved over its first game of the season and there is no question but that our game will be a great football battle. California has shown a strong defense and by use of forward passes has turned back all opponents but St. Mary's, this team gaining a scoreless tie with Coach Price's eleven. California is particularly strong in the middle of the line with Captain Roy Riegels at center and Schwartz and either Gill or Pitto as guards. Schwartz was outstanding in the game with Pennsylvania, as was Riegels.

In beating the Olympic club of San Francisco, 19 to 12, Saturday the Bears showed plenty of reserve strength. For Coach Price gave without using many of his regulars, several of whom attended Southern California's game with Stanford. No California regulars started and such men as Eisan, Lam, Riegels, etc., did not play at all.

MINUS INJURIES. Southern California came through its tough game with Stanford minus several serious injuries, but while this battle was in progress California was able to save such men as she desired for this Saturday's engagement. Nobody knows just how much a tough game takes out of a team. But I am hoping I am inclined to give Washington State a slight edge in this game because I believe that Coach Hollingberg has a little bit better balanced team than Stanford.

It should be a close game, however, and Oregon State has a splendid chance of winning—in fact it would not be an upset. Coach Schissler's team did emerge with the long end of the score. Last year Washington State won, 9 to 7.

The other games look like comparatively soft touches. Oregon entertains the University of California at Los Angeles and ought to win without much difficulty.

Both Yale and Dartmouth played strong opponents last week and this fact may have an important bearing on the game. Teams are frequently "softened up" by hard games and unable to show their best form the following week. This was true of both Army and Harvard, which played rough 20-20 tie two weeks ago. Both were below par the following week, losing to Yale and Dartmouth. It is probable that Yale and Dartmouth may have lost some of the fine form in last week's struggles and will not be at top condition for Saturday's battle.

Love of Football Attracts Players

Men play football, not out of a sense of duty to their college, nor in quest of the glory of the headlines, but because of their love of the game. In the opinion of Johnny Cox, captain and center of the Colgate eleven.

"Yes," said Cox in a recent discussion of the subject, "I've heard of fellows who regard football as drudgery but I don't believe it. I believe they thought they owed it to their college. I've never met any of them but I believe they constitute a small minority of the total number participating in the game and I also believe the drudgery part of it has been exaggerated."

"No man could attain the skill necessary for varsity competition without being through an incentive to prepare himself, in other words a strong liking for the game. No man can go far in a line he dislikes and if football was drudgery I don't believe there would be many players."

Cox admits that every football player is conscious of a duty to his alma mater, but declares that that is also true of the students that don't go in for football.

No great prep school record preceded Cox to Colgate. "I came here," says Captain Johnny, "because Colgate offered the best course in the subjects I wanted to take up. And it wasn't through any desire to make a sacrifice that I went out for football. I had played some in high school and liked it. And I've been playing it in college for only one reason. I love the game. And that's true of all the other fellows on the squad."

Out-of-Town.

Philadelphia, October 31.—(United News.)—Preparing for the game with Navy which may make or break the season for Pennsylvania the Quaker varsity was quartered tonight at the Seaview Golf Club near Atlantic City. Penn's footballers took a snappy workout today and looked good.

It is likely that the team will have full strength for Saturday's game. The Penn squad will not return to Philadelphia until shortly before time for the game's start on Saturday.

Columbia Off.

New York, October 31.—Columbia's squad of 32 players entrained tonight for Ithaca, where the Lions will play Cornell Saturday. Captain Mal Blacker, veteran tackle, was declared fit for the game. He had been on the injured list.

Another Stag Meets Princeton

Chicago, October 31.—(AP)—After a lapse of 40 years, another Stag is to play against Princeton on the gridiron.

Back in 1889 Amos Alonzo Stag, then a star end at Yale, wound up his competition by playing against the Tigers. Next Saturday his 18-year-old son, Paul, will lead the University of Chicago team against Princeton as the Maroon quarterbacks.

The senior Stag was a star end at Yale, being chosen on one of Walter Camp's earliest "All-American" teams. He weighed only 140 pounds then. His son weighs exactly the same, but is much taller than his father, who is in his thirty-eighth year as football coach at Chicago.

ATLANTA STARS ENTER FINALS

Miss Maddox and Mrs. Doak Meet Today for Title at Albany.

Albany, October 31.—(AP)—The finals of the first women's invitation golf tournament over the Radium Springs course tonight was an all-Atlanta affair, Miss Margaret Maddox, southern women's champion, and Mrs. W. D. Doak, tourney medalist, having won through the semi-finals today in handy fashion.

Miss Maddox, pre-tournament favorite, lived up to expectations of the gallery today by rallying on the incoming nine to eliminate Mrs. Robert Fuller, St. Petersburg, Fla., 3 and 2.

Mrs. Doak, while holding a lead of 2 up at the turn, found a sturdy opponent in Mrs. Kennon Rodwell, of Savannah, whom she eliminated, 4 and 2.

All square at the turn, Miss Maddox set out on a determined drive to take the match from Mrs. Fuller, winning the 10th, 11th and 12th holes to establish a lead that was never in danger. The 13th was halved and then Mrs. Fuller made her last bid as a finalist, winning the long 14th. The 15th was halved, then Miss Maddox took the 16th to end the match.

Coming to the turn with a 2-up lead, Mrs. Doak held it through the next three holes and won the 14th to 3 up. The 15th was halved and then Mrs. Doak put the finishing touch to the match by winning the 16th.

Miss Maddox continued in the role of a favorite tonight, but there were many who predicted the most keenly contested match of the tournament tomorrow as she meets Mrs. Doak for the title.

squad, will not be able to play. He was lost when he dislocated a shoulder in the Florida game.

Red Smith, veteran end who broke his hand in the Oglethorpe game, is out again with an injured foot. He has been pursued by a very determined jinx all fall.

Mehre expects to start either Paris or Moran at quarter. The remainder of his lineup will be that which started in the Florida game, unless he makes another backfield swap. And he may. His lineup is not yet determined.

Georgia is on the short end of the odds in the game. Tulane beat Tech largely because superior line play gave the backfield excellent opportunities which they took advantage of in the first half.

If the Georgia line can outcharge the Tulane forwards the Bulldogs will upset the dome here Friday.

TAILORED-MADE. Arguments that Tulane cannot go all fall without making a name for itself, but those who argue it forget that the Greenies have played a tailored-made schedule, one which has permitted a substantial amount of physical and mental rest.

A Georgia victory would be in the nature of an upset, but, then, more cataclysmic upsets have occurred in the past. Tulane's actual strength is perhaps more than Georgia's, but any relaxation, any neglect of the defenses, will send the 21 Pullmans home draped in crepe.

Zuppke Fears Pitt Against Buckeyes

Glowing Tales From East Cause Dark Outlook for Ohio State.

By Bob Zuppke,

Football Coach, University of Illinois.

I am afraid Ohio State, which bears the Big Ten standard to eastern gridirons tomorrow, faces disaster. Glowing tales of the prowess of Pittsburgh come out of the east and bode no good to Ohio State. Eastern critics agree that Pitt is one of the top-notch elevens in the east this year. It has won five games, Waynesboro (53-0), Duke (52-7), West Virginia (27-7), Nebraska (13-7), and Allegheny (40-0).

The Nebraska game is the only one which means anything to a middle-western commentator. Pitt won this decisively, scoring twice before Nebraska put over a touchdown, by a pass. I doubt if Nebraska classes this year with the best Big Ten elevens.

Ohio State won, 7-6, from Iowa, which had more power but blundered at critical periods. The Buckeyes defeated Michigan by one touchdown, scoring by the air route and holding the Wolverines, who made four times as much yardage. Our scouts thought Ohio State observers did not think they were exceptional at Illinois last year, Coach Williamson has not a lot to work with. He has succeeded in building team spirit, which had suffered so much as a reflection of the anti-Worce campaign. If Pitt is as good as they tell us—I say "if"—it is hard to see how Ohio State can win.

TEAM SPIRIT. Beyond Holman, a clever quarterback, and Fesler, an end of reputation, although our observers did not think he was exceptional at Illinois last year, Coach Williamson has not a lot to work with. He has succeeded in building team spirit, which had suffered so much as a reflection of the anti-Worce campaign. If Pitt is as good as they tell us—I say "if"—it is hard to see how Ohio State can win.

Chicago, victor over Indiana but beaten decisively by Purdue, was not impressive either in victory or defeat. Princeton from this distance appears below standard, but my guess is that the Tigers are plenty good enough to trim Chicago, much as I should prefer to think the other way. Chicago has a big line, not agile, which cannot cope with speed.

It is of historic interest that Paul Stagg, son of the Maroon coach, will call the signals for Chicago against his father's alma mater.

FOUR UNDEFEATED. There are now four undefeated teams in the Big Ten, Minnesota, Purdue, Ohio State and Illinois. Indiana tied Ohio State and Iowa played a deadlock with Illinois. Minnesota will not underestimate Indiana. Two years ago Indiana held the Gophers to a tie which elbowed them out of a share in the championship, and Dr. Spears has probably mentioned that incident several times. Indiana was not downhearted by its three previous defeats, and went in to win from Ohio State. If the men will not be awed by the prospect of meeting Minnesota, but they cannot be figured to overcome a sturdier foe with a sprightly and steadier backfield.

New York, October 31.—Following is the complete closing list of today's transactions in the New York Stock Exchange:

Atlanta spot cotton closed easy, 25 points, at 17.50. Sales, 1,000; receipts, 2,283; shipments, 455; stocks, 36,806.

New York, October 31.—Rallies from an irregular opening were promoted by unfavorable weather reports in the cotton market here today, but prices later weakened under the renewal of liquidation and southern selling. January contracts sold off from 18.20 to 18.02 and closed at that figure, with the general market showing barely steady at net declines of 20 to 22 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 1 point, but comparatively light initial offerings were readily absorbed and the market soon turned steady. Some selling on relatively easy Liverpool cables seemed to be just about offset by covering on reports of further rains in the south and low temperatures in the west and for a time the market showed a pretty steady advance.

The volume of business tapered off on the bulges and the market was very quiet later in the morning, as if traders were waiting for the reopening of the stock market. This was reported firm at advances and brought in a little flurry of buying which sent the market up to 18.17 and 18.57 with the general list showing net advances of about 4 to 8 points.

The advance met some southern selling, however, and the market later eased off on reports that the stock market had reacted to its opening advances. This seemed to cause some selling by some of the early buyers and the market became rather unsettled during the late afternoon, when southern hedging was a little more in evidence.

December sold off to 17.90 and March to 18.31 and the market closed within a point or two of the lowest. Except for a flurry of business at the start and again at the close the market was generally quiet.

The unfavorable weather reports came in for some comment but evidently failed to stimulate any trading interests of consequence. And local brokers said the market looked as if it was waiting for further stock market developments.

Liverpool cables said that continental buying and covering on the local bank rate had been supplied by hedging and liquidation in that market.

Port receipts today $4,200, United States port stocks 2,337,236; exports 62,788, making 2,090,808 so far this season.

15 TO 32 POINTS
LOST AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, October 31.—(AP)—After fluctuating narrowly for most of the session, the market closed here tomorrow and the closing down of the principal financial markets after today until Monday, cotton trading became active and liquidation close due to some pre-holiday liquidation. Prices which had advanced moderately eased off rapidly, December contracts selling at 17.50, or 21 points net lower. The general market closed easy at net declines of 15 to 22 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively easier, but the local market opened irregular; initial trades were unchanged, 17.50, and March 18.50, and prices continued to recede after short start until active positions showed losses of 2 to 3 points compared with the previous close.

Offerings were absorbed at the decline by a demand stimulated by the unfavorable weather in the belt. December rallied to 18.12, January 18.23 and March 18.50, or 6 to 7 points above the previous close.

After mid-session the market turned decidedly weak due to pre-holiday and the usual weak end liquidation and evening up. All active months made new lows for the day in late trading with December at 17.50, January 17.97 and March 18.50, or 25 to 27 points below the highs. Final prices were at about the lowest. The late decline was helped materially by fears of larger private crop estimates.

Receipts, 80,351; last year, 438,715; for year, 4,180,000; last year, 4,140,000. Exports, 61,015; for week, 223,105; for year, 2,033,145; last year, 2,196,000. Stocks, 2,557,068; last year, 2,163,200. Stock on shipboard, 208,771; last year, 257,550. Spot sales, 4,117; last year, 40,000.

New York Bank Statement.

New York, October 31.—Clearing house statement as reported by Dow, Jones & Co. shows: Deposits, $3,533,000,000; balance, $378,000,000.

Rice.

New Orleans, October 31.—Rough rice good demand; sales now; receipts 2,394. Clean rice quiet, sales 1,027 bush; 265 bbls; receipts 3,727.

HOOVER COMMITTEE TO AID COTTON MILLS

Boston, October 31.—(AP)—The industries of the country will be aided by the work of President Hoover's committee appointed to study problems of distribution, Frederick M. Feiler told the National Association

On Cotton Manufacturers today, because a basis of facts will be set up which will help them in the control of the demand for their products.

Mr. Feiker, chairman of the committee, explained the relation of its work to the cotton industry during the morning session of the convention.

"The cotton business appears today to be one in which the management has secured some control over supply and demand through advance knowledge," he said. "Those industries which are apparently best in balance are those in which production and sales are in equilibrium."

"The coming change in the distribution which is to be taken up by the government," he continued, "will have its primary value in setting up a better basis which will aid in the control of distribution of the main objects in view, he explained, and the gaining of a statistical picture of the number of distributors classified as to employees and as to volume of business.

Marked improvement in the quality of cotton goods now obtainable over that of two years ago was noted by Ephraim Freedman, of R. H. Macy & Co., of New York, speaking as a representative of the retailer.

"Unfortunately, however, we are continuing," many manufacturers are designating, "many manufacturers are designing their products to sell at a price which many retailers are buying on a price."

attitude is becoming self-evident through the falling off in sales and loss in profits. The consumer will not continue to buy inferior merchandise."

Speaking from the standpoint of the manufacturer of trade-marked goods, Ernest N. Hood, treasurer of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company of Salem, described sales difficulties.

Representatives of other branches of the industry took part in the discussion. S. R. Glassford, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, spoke for the merchants.

the earnings of the leading motion picture companies have shown a substantial increase during the second half of 1928 and the first six months of 1929. Although sound films have brought about a tremendous increase in costs, this additional expense has been more than offset by the increase in gross revenue during the past year. The "talkies" have now passed the experimental stage and are now generally conceded to be a success. The new leaders in the motion picture industry, however, are not entirely satisfied with the fairly rapid developments in the industry during and other developments which promise of further increasing their range are being considered. The application of color has already been made in many instances with success, and there is good reason to expect that in 1930 color will be applied to feature pictures almost as easily as sound accompaniment at the present time. A few of the new producers are now exhibiting pictures on a much larger screen than before, and generally in the proportion of new reels. The showing of pictures on larger screens not only enforces the inclusion of considerably

But also of giving a stereoscopic effect to the projection. These screen pictures, however, have not been used for a sufficient length of time to permit any forecast at this time of their ultimate success. The question of the further development of the stereoscopic picture which must be considered in the future of the motion picture industry. Television does not yet appear to be a threat to the industry for at least a few years, as authorities admitted that for some time it will have to remain a crude image that is viewed over the wire. It is a development, however, that will have a considerable influence upon the progress of the motion picture industry.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 65

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

After setting the infernal machine Paulvitch blew out the lamp and stepped from the cabin. Cautiously he made his way to his former bunk and hastily gathered together his few possessions, crossed the deck and lowered himself in silence into his canoe. A minute or two later he was paddling toward the shore to be swallowed up in the darkness of the jungle night, meanwhile congratulating himself on the promising success of his plans.

Could he have had even a slight knowledge of what awaited him in the long years to come in the terrors of a hideous jungle existence he would have fled to the certain death of the open sea rather than endure it. But for the moment his thoughts were occupied with his fancied triumph and his earlier life in old Russia, where he had been taught the dastardly business by which he now believed he had doomed the Kinead.

Years before, under the rule of the Car in his native land, Paulvitch had been a prominent member of a famous and much feared band of nihilists. In 1884, St. Petersburg he had learned and practiced the making of these deadly machines which so often laid low the hated upper classes. To escape he had finally joined Rokoff's band to embark upon that villain's kidnapping expedition and his promises of gold.

During the long voyage to the African coast he had employed his spare time in constructing the infernal machine whose potential destructiveness could wipe out in the fraction of a second every enemy aboard the Kinead. Paulvitch liked his lips in anticipatory joy. "Life and vengeance are not to elude me after all," he thought as he visioned the outcome of this night's gruesome work.

Athletic Teams of Cuba Coming Here on Mission Of Good-Will to Atlanta

LEAVES FOR SOUTH

Plans for two important athletic events here in December, with a view to cementing friendly relations between Atlanta and Havana, Cuba, were outlined here by a group of Atlanta business men by J. C. Woodward, president of the Georgia Military academy, at a luncheon meeting held in the private dining room of the Plaza Hotel Thursday.

Explaining the proposal of the Cuban Athletic Club and the University of Havana to send basketball and football squads here to meet teams representing G. M. A. as "an opportunity for Atlanta to establish a feeling of friendship and broaden her trade with Cuba," Mr. Woodward urged that the Chamber of Commerce and business men of the city join the academy officials here in making it one of the biggest events of the year in Atlanta.

In response, Ben S. Barker, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, said that he could assure academy officials that the Chamber of Commerce would lead its co-operation and proposed that all businessmen of the city pledge their support.

Following Mr. Barker's remarks, those present voted to guarantee $5,000 for entertainment expenses and transportation of the Havana teams to Atlanta and return. A committee also was appointed to work out final details in the arrangement of a program, and the entertainment of the teams and Cuban officials during their stay here.

The committee which includes J. C. Woodward, chairman; Ben S. Barker, Harry O. Mitchell, Charles E. Hoke and Frank T. Reynolds, will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the Chamber of Commerce building to formulate preliminary plans.

According to Mr. Woodward, an effort will be made to play the grid game in the Georgia Tech stadium. The basketball will take place at night on the same date as the football contest, which will be held December 3, 4 or 5.

Mr. Woodward says that the Havana teams will be accompanied by a delegation of more than 250. They will make the trip to Atlanta by a chartered boat and train.

Special invitations to come to Atlanta for the events will be extended to the president of Cuba and his cabinet, the mayor of Havana and the Havana Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Woodward said Thursday.

Auto Victim Believed Dying; Four Accidents Reported

A white man, tentatively identified as W. H. Whitaker, of 430 Lawton street, by papers found on his body, was unconscious and believed to be dying at Grady hospital Thursday night.

His injuries were received when the automobile which he was driving east on Lucile avenue near Ashby street, skidded more than a hundred yards on the street car track and crashed at high speed into a tree, according to reports of Call Officers C. P. Whaley and R. E. Floyd who examined the scene of the accident. The machine was demolished.

The man was picked up by "Cool" Williams, 499 Atwood street, Tech football star. Physicians said that the man's head was badly crushed and that he held out slight hope for his recovery.

Lois Kervin, five-year-old daughter of Mrs. Albert Kervin, of 630 North Main street, received a fracture of her left leg and bruises and lacerations about the head when she was struck by an automobile driven by an unidentified white man Thursday night near the residence. She was taken to Grady hospital.

Call Officers W. D. McMillen and O. L. Williams, later, at W. D. McMillen, of 619 Lindsey street, said to have been an occupant of the machine which struck the girl. He is being held on suspicion. Kervin denied that he was in the machine.

J. H. Cason, 20, of 1010 Sells avenue, and Sloan Johnson, 19, of 1010 Sells avenue, were driving a Buick sedan hospital for treatment Thursday night after the machine in which they were riding, operated by T. E. Brewer, of 1556 Rogers avenue, crashed into another machine driven by Sam Marks, negro, of 510 South Humphrey street. The crash occurred at Fair street and Capitol avenue.

Marche was arrested by Traffic Patrolman C. J. Harris, and is held at police station, charged with reckless driving.

W. G. Griffith, 55, of 187 Tenth street, was struck by an automobile at Tenth street and Peachtree late Thursday night and was taken to Grady hospital for treatment of possible serious spinal injury, according to reports of Call Officers C. P. Whaley and R. E. Floyd who examined the scene of the accident. The machine was demolished.

The man was picked up by "Cool" Williams, 499 Atwood street, Tech football star. Physicians said that the man's head was badly crushed and that he held out slight hope for his recovery.

NOVA SCOTIA VOTE BEATS PROHIBITION BY NINE TO ONE

Halifax, N. S., October 31.—(AP)—Tabulation of the votes in two-thirds of the polls in today's plebiscite on the liquor question showed that 14,700 more people voted for government control than for retention of the prohibition law now in force.

Two questions were submitted to the voters, whether the present Nova Scotia temperance act should be retained or whether a system of government control and sale should be substituted. Tabulations available gave a majority for the affirmative of each question.

The majority for prohibition was 3,500 and for government control 29,000. The returns showed that thousands answered only one question.

The final vote will be interpreted by the government.

Mystery Shrouds Deaths Of Boy and Little Sister

GIRL DIES 36 HOURS AFTER BROTHER

Annie Elizabeth Rice, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rice, of 310 Harold avenue, died at the Grady hospital Thursday afternoon in the same mysterious manner which her 7-year-old brother, James Rice, succumbed less than 36 hours before.

Attending physicians were unable to explain the cause of their deaths. The boy died a few moments after he reached the hospital Wednesday morning, before physicians could diagnose his ailment or administer treatment. Annie Elizabeth was brought to the hospital at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and died several hours later.

Annie Elizabeth suddenly became ill with convulsions as her family sat about the bier of James Wednesday night. According to Mr. and Mrs. Rice, a physician was summoned and the child was examined, but was not thought to be in any danger.

The little girl's condition, however, became suddenly worse Thursday morning, and she was taken to the hospital.

The body of the boy will be taken to Almon, Ga., today, where burial will take place.

Funeral services for Annie Elizabeth will be announced later by Harry G. Poole.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice have four other children—Mildred, Turner, Robert Luther and Crawford Daniel.

NEGRO IS QUESTIONED IN WATCHMAN'S DEATH

John Patterson, 28, negro, of 122 Chappell street, was being held by police Thursday night on a charge of suspicion in connection with the murder on the night of October 12 of John Striplin, a night watchman at the Monroe Bonded Warehouse.

The finding of a shotgun, which police say is the same make which was used in the killing, in a room where Patterson resides, was responsible for the negro's arrest. Patterson had been questioned by authorities shortly after the murder and released.

The arrest was made Wednesday by Lieutenant P. O. Sturdivant and Plainclothesmen F. C. Foster, C. W. Mauldin and J. Brooks.

Patterson was first arrested three weeks ago after it was learned that Striplin had found him asleep in the warehouse and had ordered him out. Police believed that the incident might have provided a motive for the crime but the negro was released after a questioning, and was not to be held until he had any connection in the case.

In the course of Thursday's questioning Patterson told officials that he is an escaped convict from the Pike county chancery at Zebulon, Ga.

Patterson will be returned to Zebulon today or Saturday. Lieutenant Sturdivant said that a thorough check of Patterson's story regarding his whereabouts during the night of the slaying will be made before the suspicion charge is dropped.
